Greek Rebels Plan Rival Government

By ALKAIOS ANGELOPOULOS

ATHENS, July 17 (INS)—Greek government officials today termed serious the new split-up tactics of guerrilla bands in the north as an apparent prelude to establishment of a pro-Communist mountain government in opposition to the Athens regime. A guerrilla-controlled radio told of the plans to form a rump regime. With the Greek 41st and 33rd Army brigades in pursuit of the rebel forces, a spokesman said:

"The latest tactical moves are serious.

"If the invaders' object was to occupy Konitza or Ioannina they have failed. But if the object was to open a new front it can hardly be said they have failed.

"The Greek army soon will clear the forest areas but it will be difficult and costly. The guerrillas are managing to keep the country in a state of suspense and alarm."

The majority of an estimated force of 2000 guerrillas encircled northwest of Ionannina, in the region of Kalpaki, were reported to have penetrated the encircling ring of the Greek army to make good their escape.

At the few points where regular army forces made contact with the leftist guerrillas, who reputedly began their drive in an invasion from Communist-dominated Albania, the rebel units were battered severely.

The worst mauling was reported administered in the area of Asprangelos, some 19 miles above Ioannina, where contact was made with a force of 300 guerrillas.

An official announceemnt said that in the fighting so far in the Epirus region adjoining the Albanian frontier guerrilla losses totaled 424 while Greek army casualties were slight.

When the Greek army closed in on areas in which the guerrillas were concentrated the leftists evaded heavy fighting and split up into small units, moving back to higher mountain regions.

Some first made their way into the Zagoria hills, south of Konitsa and adjacent to the Albanian frontier.

The eighth brigade of the 43d Greek Division moved up in the Zagoria area in an attempt to clear that mountain region of the guerrillas.

Mrs. FDR's Aid to Reds Reported

By HOWARD RUSHMORE

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, July 17—Prominent Americans including Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Betty Field and Lady Mendl today found themselves unwittingly supporting Stalin's attempted overthrow of the Greek government.

All are sponsors of a Communist stooge organization, the American Relief for Greek Democracy, a group closely linked with still another Red Fascist front, the American Council for a Democratic Greece.

The Council organization five days ago picketed the Greek consulate here, carrying slogans denouncing President's Truman's Aid to Greece plan and supporting the terrorist Elas and EAM cliques being used by Russia to forment civil war in the Mediterranean nation.

Seemingly perfectly timed as a warm-up to the guerrilla warfare which broke out Sunday, the council-led more than 100 pickets in front of the Greek consulate shouting support for the Elas and EAM.

Among the demonstrators, who also picketed the Hotel Sherry-Netherland where Greek Foreign Minister Constantin Tsaldaris is staying, were representatives of the following Communist-controlled groups:

American Slav Congress, Bulgarian-American Workers Club, Romanian - American Workers Club, Slovak Workers Club, Congress of American Women, the Hellenic-American Club and the Greek Maritime Union.

Rail Worker Killed At Lincoln, 14 Hurt

A railroad section worker was killed and 14 others were injured, one seriously, when a motorized car and trailer carrying them to work from Waltham to Lincoln left the rails and piled up in the tracks in South Lincoln about a mile from Lake Walden.

Levagge Attardo, 55, of Gordon st., Waltham, was killed. Albert W. Epsom, 23, of Newton st., Waltham, is in critical condition at Waltham Hospital.

Epsom and the other injured were taken to the hospital in a Concord police ambulance and in private cars. All except Epsom escaped serious injury, doctors reported.

Attardo, assistant foreman of the Boston & Maine Railroad crew, was pronounced dead by Dr. Howard E. Robinson of Concard, medical examiner.

Cause of the accident was not immediately determined. A railroad spokesman said a wheel of the sectionmen's car, which was hauling a flat-platformed trailer, left the rails. Both the gasoline-propelled motor-car and the trailer piled up on the track.

John Cloherty, 40, of Saron st., Waltham, the crew foreman, suffered a badly dislocated shoulder, back and leg bruises. Despite his injuries, Cloherty snatched warning flags and ran along the tracks to warn approaching trains and sent other men of the crew for aid.

Police arrived at the scene from Lincoln, Concord and the Concord State Police barracks. The crack-up occurred on a curve near Silver Hill.

Motorists along a near-by road were pressed into service to speed the injured to Waltham Hospital. In addition to Cloherty and Epsom, others taken to the hospital were:

William Cobleigh, Jr., 19, Main st., South Acton.

Silva J. Mieli, 54, of Byron st., Concord.

John Mozzie, 64, Mechanics st., Waltham.

Dominic Ardagna, 58, Farwell st., Waltham.

Francis Cerriocola, Bennett st., Waltham.

John Kelley, 90 Pond st., Waltham.

Arthur Brazee, 27 School st., South Acton.

Marshall James Bowman, 8 Castle st., Waltham.

Edward Franks, 30 Bennett st., Waltham, and his son, Robert Franks, 30 Bennett st., Waltham, possible skull fracture.

Joseph White, 17 Acton st., Maynard.

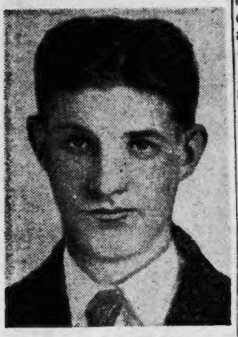
Seize 2d Norfolk Lifer in Break Plot

A second lifer at Norfolk Prison Colony has been seized and 10 more inmates are under secret surveillance as guards battle the most desperate escape plot in the penal colony's history, it was learned today by the Boston Evening American. The man held in solitary confinement today as a second ringleader in the plot is James S. Vincent, 37, formerly of East Eighth st., South Boston, who has served 20 years and once escaped from Concord Reformatory, after slugging a guard.



JAMES VINCENT
Lifer's Escape Try Nipped

Full ramifications of the conspiracy of the dozen inmates to gain their freedom by scaling the 4600-volt electric wires atop the prison walls were learned today and confirmed at Norfolk, by Deputy Supt. Edward S. Grennen, who told of Vincent's seizure.

Grennen, acting superintendent during the vacation of Supt. Maurice N. Winslow, admitted that all guards have been alerted in the emergency.

Last Monday, Dep. Commr. of Corrections Daniel J. McDevitt revealed the seizure of Abraham Goldenberg, also a lifer, in the investigation of an escape plot at Norfolk.

Following a devious trial, the guards next shadowed Vincent and late yesterday found clothing hidden behind his locker in the Industry shop. They claim to have found an entire civilian outfit consisting of a State Guard jacket, a pair of black trousers and a white shirt.

Inside the locker was found a hammer, and hidden between the mattress and spring of his cell bunk was a hacksaw. Guards searched him and found a knife in a pocket of his work clothes. An immediate search was launched by guards of all cells including building 71, which housed Vincent and Goldenberg, and discovered locks on two big grills on the ground floor and on the top floor had been prepared for the break.

Inmates had sawed around the locks, removed them, and carried them to a prison shop where keys were made for them. The locks were then returned to the grill doors and taped firmly into position.

These locks would open under normal use by the guards, but could be punched out by the inmates in the event the keys failed or were seized.

Near the Industry Shop was found a platform 3 and ½ feet high to be used to vault the wall. Both legs were encased in rubber handles weighing two pounds each and sturdy enough to protect the inmates from the 4600-volt current—or designed to.

The American learned the following details of the carefully prepared and desperate bid of the dozen men "who felt they had nothing to lose":

The conspiracy was hatched more than a month ago in a dormitory unit known among inmates as "The Political House" and inhabited by 14 lifers. The unit gained this name from the authority of the life term inmates in directing recreational activities and life among those serving shorter terms.

Not all 14 lifers joined in the plot, but some among the long term inmates, trusted by the ring leaders, were approached and joined a few lifers to make 12 plotters.

For weeks, the men residing in "Building 71" accumulated such diverse paraphernalia as rubber tubing, toy guns, wooden billies, hacksaws, knives, false keys, wooden ladders in sections, metal hooks and improvised wooden platforms.

Several of the conspirators worked in the shipping room or the adjacent industry shop and had access to pliers and wrenches and to stocks of metal and rubber.

It was agreed that the group would "go over the wall" on the first foggy night when visibility would be nearly nil. Routine at

Hold Tight! It'll Be Cooler Sunday, Maybe

The weatherman coolly scanned humid skies today and then prophesied another 24 hours of tropical weather.

But in the same warm breath he predicted week-end relief from the muggy weather now in its 11th day. A weather bureau bulletin reported a steadily advancing current of cooler, drier air is breezing along the northern part of the country and should reach New England by Sunday.

The forecast for today and tomorrow, however, was continued warm and humid, with occasional showers, not strong enough to wash the heat from the air.

An indication of what could be expected today came in a midforenoon forecast which stated the temperature was 76 and the humidity was 84 per cent of saturation.

Meanwhile, the heat wave indirectly exacted its toll of lives as four more drownings were reported from beaches and lakes clogged with thousands seeking relief.

At Charlesbank Beach, near the West Boston bridge, where four children were drowned in the past five weeks, three additional lifeguards were assigned to keep youngsters from dangerous, deeper waters.

Joseph Lee, acting chairman of the park commission, pointed out no drownings had occurred for three years in the area of the beach assigned for bathing. A piling barricade would be built, he said, to prevent bathers from using nonassigned bathing areas.

Girl Singer Happy Bar Lifted for Car Winner She Drew

Leslie Long, 22-year-old brunette dance band singer, a five-feet-four model of gumption, drew the national limelight today for spark-plugging the country-wide protest that righted a wrong against Harvey Jones, Ahoskie, N. C., Negro, in the now famous automobile lottery.

LESLIE LONG, DANCE BAND SINGER
Drew Ticket That "Won" $3200 Car for Negro Veteran

It was Miss Long who, blindfolded, drew Harvey's number at the Ahoskie Kiwanis Club festival—then pluckily refused to draw another when sponsors of the event discovered Jones was a Negro.

They went ahead with a second drawing, with a well-to-do Virginia physician, who already had an expensive auto, winning the $3200 car—but the coast-to-coast indignation which flared in the wake of the band singer's leadership moved the Ahoskie Kiwanians to promise Harvey Jones an identical model.

Miss Long, whose home is in Pittsburgh and whose father came from the South, was happy about the outcome today. In Detroit, where she is now singing, she said:

"There were between 5000 and 6000 persons in the hall when I drew the ticket. But then they discovered the winner was a Negro. Some men came up and took the ticket. Later they announced there would have to be another drawing.

"I was shocked. I just refused to do it. Then they became insistent and I got mad. I got madder and madder. I told them, 'I just won't do it' and I walked out. I'm so glaw now that Harvey Jones is going to get an automobile after all."

Down in Ahoskie, Harvey Jones was glad, too. But he had a problem. The 23-year-old Navy veteran didn't think the lane leading to his father's farm was wide enough for him to drive the big car through it. He said maybe they would give him money instead, or he might sell the car.

"I'm mighty glad they are going to give me something," he summed it up.

New England Kiwanians, 15 of whose clubs are planning to six-car raffle at Suffolk Downs Aug. 18-24 to raise funds for underprivileged children, were still indignant about the Ahoskie incident.

Police Capt. William Britt of East Boston, a Kiwanian, said he would ask the club president there, James Case, to press for a revocation of the Ahoskie club's charter.

Lewis, 6-Term Mayor Of Everett, Dies at 44

Mayor Frank E. Lewis, 44, in the second year of his sixth term as mayor of Everett, died today in Whidden Memorial Hospital, Everett, of pernicious anemia and an infection of the liver.

At his bedside as the end came after an all-night vigil were members of his immediate family, including his son, Sgt. Frank E. Lewis, Jr., who had come in last night by plane from his New Mexico base.

Mayor Lewis

In another room in the hospital lay the mayor's father, William D. Lewis, 75, dangerously ill and unaware that his son had died.

The mayor, in ill health for several years, was stricken 11 days ago while at his summer home in Brewster and was rushed to the hospital by ambulance.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dorothea Crosby Lewis; five children, his father and four brothers.

The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Glendale Methodist Church, where services will be conducted by the Rev. Harry F. Folger, pastor. Until then, the body will be in his home in Hampshire st. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett.

His fourth term as mayor was highlighted by an attempt by five Everett voters to oust him under the corrupt practices law. The ouster petition alleged excessive expenditures in his 1941 election campaign. The case was thrown out by a three-judge panel of Suffolk Superior Court.

For several weeks in 1940, the mayor and his family were guarded by police 24 hours a day after he had received threatening notes signed by the "Black Spade."

Ambrose T. English, president of Everett's board of aldermen, has been acting mayor since Lewis was stricken and will continue in that capacity until the December election.

Rayburn Welcomes Tax Cut as '48 Issue

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—House Democratic Leader Rayburn declared today the Democratic party welcomes a Republican challenge to make the $4,000,000,000 GOP tax-cutting bill a 1948 presidential campaign issue.

"The Democratic party is for the proper kind of tax reduction at the proper time," the Texan said. "This bill gives a great many people too much and a great many more too little."

Legion Head Urges Clergy Unite to Fight Communism

With Communism, veterans' housing and juvenile delinquency high up on their agenda, the 29th annual state convention of the American Legion opened here today as thousands of delegates from all sections of the state streamed into the city.

The opening shot came from Dept. Comdr. Lawrence F. Quigley in a Symphony Hall address in which the Legion head called for the creation of a committee of clergymen of all faiths to take up the fight against Communism.

At the same time Quilgley recommended the adoption of a plan whereby the Legion would co-operate with police chiefs from all over the state to combat juvenile delinquency.

Meanwhile, resolutions were expected to be drafted any minute demanding solution of the housing project, one of the Legion's most ardent crusades.

That housing will be a burning issue before delegates of the three-day convention was seen in remarks from Coleman C. Curran, adjutant, who accused the federal government of bogging down in their various projects to relieve the situation.

The Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill is expected to come in for a share of Legion opposition on the ground that it does not directly benefit returning veterans but is essentially a slum clearance bill.

The convention, expected to be the largest in the state's history, got underway with registration of delegates at Symphony Hall. It is expected that 3000 will register during the convention.

Only two candidates have appeared thus far to take over the mantle of state directorship from Quigley. They are Harold A. Rogers of Wellesley and John L. Sullivan of Watertown, both World War I veterans.

The annual parade will get underway at 2 p. m. Saturday, starting from Commonwealth ave. and Hereford st., winding through the city and disbanding at Commonwealth ave. and Arlington st.

Flying Santa's Death in Air Ruled Due to Heart Attack

William H. "Bill" Wincapaw, New England's "Flying Santa Claus," who used a plane for reindeer and the skies for a chimney, is dead.

The 62-year-old veteran who dropped from the clouds to bring Christmas cheer to hundreds of lonely lighthouse occupants died of a heart attack at the controls of his plane off Rockland, Me., the plane carrying to his death a youthful passenger who only a few minutes before pleaded with his mother for permission to make his maiden flight.

The passenger was identified by Police Chief George Lilienthal of Rockland as Robert L. Mackenhirn, 20, of Washington, D. C., a summer visitor at the Maine resort.

Wincapaw's three-seater cabin cruiser plunged into the sea 15 minutes after he took off from the seaplane base at the Public Landing in Rockland.

Curtis Goodwin, a former Navy combat pilot, the only witness to the crash, said that the plane "came down from roughly 500 feet in a deep, diving spiral, almost a spin."

Medical Examiner Charles B. North said that Wincapaw died of a heart attack and that the young Muckenhirn drowned when the plane struck the water.

Wincapaw became a skyborne "Santa Claus" when in 1927 he flew out to sea, swooping down over the coast's lighthouses and dropping Yuletide gifts to parents and children who lived, worked and played at the isolated outposts.

From then on he made annual air excursions to the "shut-ins" at the lighthouses, showering them with food, favors and other Christmas packages.

Hingham Caddies' Strike Now 19th Hole Stand-Off

The caddies at the South Shore Country Club in Hingham know what they want and so does Nick Gianferante, the pro, but it began to look like a 19th hole stand-off today.

In the heat of economic anger and the mid-day sun, 25 of the club's 70 caddies struck yesterday for higher pay and lower cost of living at the caddy house.

They asked $1.35 for 18 holes instead of the $1.10 they are getting now. Furthermore, they were tired, they said, of paying 10 cents for a nickel bottle of tonic. Then, too, they kicked back 10 cents out of their pay for the upkeep of the caddy house.

And another thing, they could buy the hats they wear as badges of their profession for much less than the $1 charged them at the caddy house. Also on the list of their grievances was a stipulation that golfers cease abusing them in unprintable language.

The lads pointed out that their colleagues at other South Shore courses were making anywhere from $1.25 to $1.35 a round. But Gianferante countered that the boys got pretty good tips from the patrons of the club.

"Strikers," he said, "will not be hired back." He said his stand was backed by W. E. Warnicke, chairman of the club's golf committee.

Meanwhile, the doughty 25 picketed the main entrance without placards.

47 Governors Back Marshall, Training

By NEIL SHAW

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 17 (INS)—Governors of 44 states and three territories today stood solidly behind general principles of the Marshall plan for rehabilitation of Europe, and in favor of a universal military training law for protection of the United States.

As they adjourned their four-day meeting and started homeward, the chief executives left behind them one of the most important sessions in the 39-year history of the meetings.

The conference also adopted resolutions recommending:

1—That all employers in the United States grant their personnel leaves of absence to enable them to maintain their reserve status and take part in National Guard and organized reserve corps training.

2—Enactment by Congress of legislation returning legal title to all submerged lands, tidelands and marginal sea lands to the states.

3—Congress to continue work for the co-ordination of policy and administration in federal and state tax structures.

4—Appropriation of adequate federal funds for development of flood control projects when approved by the respective states.

5—That Congress appropriate adequate funds for full-scale development of self-liquidating hydro-electric and reclamation projects "in the national interest."

Action on all resolutions was taken in secret session.

Strong Men Swoon at Birth Film Being Shown in London

By ED CREAGH

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—The facts of life were proving too strong for London movie goers today. Six times the American film, "The Birth of a Baby," was shown at a West End theater, and six times members of the audience fainted—four at one performance, eight at another, six at a third.

"It's been like this ever since the film opened," said a perspiring usher. "Forty a day keel over sometimes. I don't know why—nothing in the film shocks me. I just have to keep carrying the swooners out."

Seven out of 10 who fainted were men—many of them rugged types. Today's casualties included a bank manager, father of two children; a Scots guardsman, with service ribbons from Germany and Italy, and a blushing recent bridegroom.

"It was nothing but the heat," he protested. "I'm going back to see the rest of it."

Some people blamed all the fainting on the fact that "The Birth of a Baby"—a prewar picture showing what happens from the first week of pregnancy until the child is delivered—is being exhibited for the first time in London to mixed audiences.

"It's embarrassing, that's why people faint," said a midwife as she left the theater and jostled her way through the queue waiting for the next performance.

But most critics and most ordinary customers found the picture restrained and valuable.

Fourteen-year-old Lillian Salmons, taken by her mother to see it, commented: "I thought it explained everything very well. I want to be a doctor when I'm older."

A gray-faced man looked at her witheringly. He'd just been plied with smelling salts by the nurse on duty.

GEORGE CURLEY GAINS

Condition of George Curley was reported "very much improved" yesterday at Cohasset Hospital. Attendants said the young official City Greeter, who is hospitalized with pneumonia and pleurisy, was "quite cheerful" throughout the day.

Paralyzed Girl Tells of Visits to Lourdes Shrine

Sally Ann O'Leary, 12, of Pittsburgh, victim of infantile paralysis, tells in the following exclusive dispatch to International News Service her reactions following a visit to the shrine of Lourdes in the hope of relieving her incapacity.

By SALLY ANN O'LEARY
As Told to International News Service

PARIS, July 17 (INS)—I wanted to stay in Lourdes so much. It is the loveliest place in the world. I would like to live there if I could. Why did we have to return to Paris?

When we left the French capital last Friday I stepped on a steam train for the first time in my life. In Pittsburgh I have ridden only cars and buses, never a real train with a real engine tied on it.

It is very shaky, you know, and I prefer papa's sedan.

We arrived in the holy town late in the evening. And, without bothering to unpack, Fr. Cox, who leads our party, led us all to a visit to the famous grotto.

Mummy wheeled me there to see the holy shrine. Then I went to bed. But I was so exhausted I could hardly sleep a wink.

I wondered would I improve, would I really be able to walk, play and run like all the other Pittsburgh children who live next door?

Saturday morning we all returned to the holy grotto. I never was more scared in my life. I do not know what scared me, but I was just scared.

A kindly person undressed me and gave me a long white robe. Then I was lifted onto a canvas chair and dipped up to the neck in "freezing" water for about a minute. At least I think it was freezing cold. But I only know from what people told me because I thought helping the world believe in God and peace warmed me all over.

As soon as I came out of the three-feet deep water I felt so much stronger. I was able that night to follow a procession on foot for about an hour.

I attended the blessing of the sick daily.

Lourdes water really is mysterious, you know. It dries so quickly. When you come out you do not need a towel.

Our stay was much too short. In Paris, Mummy and I got lost. We sure knew our way about in Lourdes.

I have bought presents for my brothers and sisters. Two penknives and rosaries for the boys and lovely silk scarves, medals and beads for the girls.

I also brought back a pocket statue of the Virgin Mary for Bobby Baker, a little cripple boy who wrote me before I left Pittsburgh and asked me to pray for him.

Our last day was spent visiting the cute birthplace of Bernadette (Bernadette Soubirous, whose visions of the Virgin Mary at the grotto made Lourdes famous) in a dark alley somewhere in the center of Lourdes.

We also toured several hospitals, talking to French nuns and nurses.

Annie gave me a beautiful scarf. Oh, but you do not know Annie. She is a good friend of mine. She is Scottish, from Glasgow. I met her at the grotto.

We got along very well, although she is nearly 30. Annie goes to Lourdes from Scotland every year. She is hoping God will make her grow some day. You see, she is only four feet tall.

I am very excited because of all I have to tell daddy when I return to Pittsburgh Sunday night.

We are leaving Paris Saturday.

I do want to go back to Lourdes next year.

WAC T-SGT. CARRIE L. BUTERA

Still in Service: WAC, WAVE Give Reasons

A vanishing type is girls in uniforms who used to throng Boston streets, trim and neat in their navy vlues or khaki.

The few that remained in service have done so, it was disclosed today in an informal survey, more from patriotic motives than from love of glory.

She has just signed up for another year, although she is going to be married as soon as she and her fiance, Norman Morse, 34, of Milford, can find an apartment in Boston.

Her work consists of cataloguing films and sometimes running the projectors in the training theater. She's pretty, 5 feet, 4 inches, with brown eyes and brown hair. This is her reason for re-enlistment:

"I think America should keep ready, no matter what, and that we should do our part in seeing that it is ready for any eventuality. I like the Army—it's been very good to me."

Typical of the WAVES who remain in service, two years after the war is over, is Chief Store Keeper Margaret A. Gay, assigned to the Fargo Barracks.

"If I stay in another 14 years I can retire," she kids. But further discussion reveals her real reason for staying in is far more serious.

"You can't tell how much time we'll have the next time we are attacked," she reasons. "The Spars and girl Marines?

The Spars disbanded a year ago and the only Marines left in service are now in Washington.

Ruling Due On State Yacht Blast Evidence

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 17 (AP)—A ruling on admissibility of evidence and testimony by a key state witness in the murder trial of Louise Overell and George (Bud) Gollum, her college sweetheart, was awaited today from Superior Judge Kenneth E. Morrison.

The court had under advisement a defense motion to strike all testimony of Capt. Tom McGaff, sheriff's criminologist, pertaining to clothing taken from the body of Mrs. Walter E. Overell, who with her wealthy financier-husband died aboard their dynamited yacht.

Another motion under advisement sought to deny admission as evidence sleeping powders, dynamite detonators, wires and yellow gelatine capsules McGaff said he found in Gollum's automobile.

Defense objections to testimony about Mrs. Overell's clothing were launched after McGaff admitted he had destroyed it because bits of flesh blown from her husband's body in the explosion were imbedded in the wearing apparel.

Prosecutor Eugene D. Williams claims the sleeping powders and capsules were part of "a long considered plot by the two young defendants to drug her parents and destroy the bodies in the dynamite explosion aboard their yacht, the Mary E."

McGaff admitted yesterday that it was impossible to get fingerprints from anything on the yacht because it had been immersed in salt water for several hours before being towed ashore.

Doorway Attack Suspect Held

Robert Fernandez, 30, of Rollins st., South End, was held for the grand jury in $25,000 today after pleading not guilty in municipal court to assault with intent to attack Mrs. Tessie Karsokas, 35, Harrison ave., South End.

Patrolman Felix Abruzzi told Judge Elijah Adlow he found Fernandez leaning over the prostrate Mrs. Karsokas, beating her.

Fernandez testified he had met her on the street and she asked him to help her home but she became hysterical and he slapped her in an effort to calm her.

Mrs. Karsokas testified she had been attacked but was excused from further testimony because the beating made it difficult for her to speak.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

NONE OF THE COUNTRIES that Woodrow Wilson so ardently helped to create meant so much to him as Czechoslovakia. That undoubtedly was because of his great affection for Prof. Thomas Masaryk and his associate, Dr. Eduard Benes.

Out of the old Austro-Hungarian provinces, Bohemia, Moravia, Slovakia and Ruthenia, Czechoslovakia was created. Mostly Slavic but with a strong and important German minority. The country was principally Roman Catholic, with large Protestant and Jewish populations.

The new nation prospered. Its great Skoda Works, partly financed by France, became one of the principal heavy industries of Europe. Nevertheless, geography served Czechoslovakia badly. Surrounded by Germany, Austria, Poland and Hungary, Czechoslovakia was not only landlocked but always in danger of absorption by a powerful Germany.

After Munich, Hitler actually moved in, annexing the Sudeten region of Bohemia and making a puppet of Slovakia. During the war, of course, the Nazis occupied the entire country until the Russians took over.

At Yalta, Czechoslovakia was tragically included in the Russian sphere of influence which the Russians always interpreted as giving them a right to pass on the personnel of government.

Thus, the prime minister of the country had to be a Communist. But after Botsdam, one of the really great tragedies of Europe occurred in Czechoslovakia, namely, the Sudeten Germans, 3,500,000 of them, the best workers in the country, were expelled from it. These German Bohemians had lived in that country from time immemorial and were the backbone of its industrial life. Few displacements have been as outrageous.

DURING THE WAR, most of the country had been occupied by the Red Army, which meant that its great heavy industries were held by Soviet Russia. The Czechs negotiated. The best they could get was that whereas the Russians were willing to return these industries to Czechoslovakia, they integrated the entire economy into the Soviet system.

Of course, this resulted in the nationalization of certain industries and all banks. About 20 per cent of the industries remained free, but they are so tightly controlled that it does not matter. No really free economic life exists today in Czechoslovakia any more than in Soviet Russia.

The Czechs then devised a policy of being a bridge between East and West. Frankly, they decided to collaborate closely with the Soviet Union and the various Slavic states. In April, 1946, a treaty of mutual assistance was signed with Yugoslavia, Soviet Russia's westernmost outpost. The world should have had warning then of what was going on, for Czechoslovakia agreed to support Tito over the Trieste question.

No free people would voluntarily do that. Actually, Czechoslovakia was already a puppet, no longer able to determine its own foreign policy.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA'S ARMY, headed by Gen. Svoboda, is part of the Russian Red army. Gen. Svoboda had during the war been interned in Russia, serving as a trusted liaison officer between Soviet authorities and other interned Czechs. Experience has well established the fact that only a Communist could be trusted to hold such a position.

What has happened in Czechoslovakia was an inevitable aftermath of Hungary. Soviet Russia is consolidating her power in the old Austro-Hungarian empire.

The curious assumption of the Czechs that they could somehow maneuver themselves into a free life, a middleman between East and West, serving Soviet Russia as a peephole into western Europe and charging the West a price for the privilege, was as ridiculous as it was futile.

It only took a phone call from the Kremlin to show Jan Masaryk, the son of the great patriot and Woodrow Wilson's good friend, exactly what he and his country amount to. They are a province of the Soviet Union—little different from Poland, Yugoslavia and poor Finland.

2 Vaccines Aid World Fight on Tuberculosis

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Two vaccines for tuberculosis, BCG, a French product known for 20 years, and a new one from England called Vole, were discussed at the fifth international Pediatrics Congress today.

Delegates from Sweden, Russia, Poland and Argentina said BCG is a good preventive wherever tuberculosis rates are high. They agreed it apparently is not a complete preventive, that it is not known how long the protective effects last, but declared it is well worthwhile for childen. In the United States BCG has not been used except sporadically, dut to the low rate of tuberculosis in this country.

Made from a weakened strain of tuberculosis germs, BCG was developed in France. Dr. Arvid J. Wallgren of Stockholm, said some persons vaccinated with it afterward have tuberculosis, but cited sensational results in some Swedish communities.

The new Vaccine Vole, made from a TB germ that has not been weakened, is under trial in Sweden and gives good indications, he said.

Doctors from Russia, Poland and Argentina also reported good results from BCG.

Kin Want GI Battle Dead Home

WASHINGTON, July 17 (INS)—A War Dept. poll revealed today that about three-fourths of the relatives of servicemen killed overseas want the bodies of the war victims returned to the Unted States for burial.

To meet the wishes of the families who lost members in the service during the war, the Army is confronted with the problem of bringing about 190,000 war dead back to American soil.

The first of America's overseas dead will begin arriving in New York next October.

Solon Warns Labor Must Clean Own House First

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 17—"Labor is in the monopoly business and must clean its own house first," Rep. Walter C. Ploeser (R.), of Missouri, challenged the CIO.

That was the reply made by the chairman of the House small business committee to the CIO's program against monopolies and its proposals for more government controls over the economic system.

Ploeser declared, "The CIO ignores its own monopoly business. Capital no longer has a corner on the monopoly market."

Ploeser listed among monopolistic devices of labor which restrict production and spiral the cost of living to unprecedented levels:

1—The closed union.
2—The limiting of the width of a painter's brush.
3—Padding of personnel.
4—The slowdown.
5—Industry wide bargaining.
6—Opposition to new and more efficient technology.

Ploeser termed the CIO program to curb capital "inadequate in scope, deceptive in purpose, injurious to the interests of true free enterprise and an effort to bury capitalism under the guise of anti-trust enforement."

Ploeser also leveled a blast at the AFL, which recently urged all its members to establish a far-flung system of labor-consumer cooperatives "to produce and distribute the necessities of life on a gigantic scale."

He said taht if the program is carried out to its ultimate goal it will destroy the American small business profit system and concurrently destroy the American labor system.

69 Contractors Face U. S. Prosecution in War Frauds

By CHARLES FINSTON

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 17—At least 69 war contractors tried to make a sucker out of Uncle Sam by duplicating and pyramiding costs and using other devices, including collusion, to get more cash in contract settlements.

Comptroller Gen. Lindsay C. Warren said 19 of these contractors, involving 79 settlements have already been certified to the Justice Dept. for prosecution as fraud cases. He added that 50 other contractors, involving 99 settlements are still under investigation.

Warren cited the case of a government inspector who, after "fixing" satisfactory settlements for the contractor, arranged to buy $24,000 worth of scrap material for $129.

This collusion, Warren said, cost the government $23,871. The inspector has been apprehended, however, and faces prosecution with the contractor.

In another case, a contractor resold for $1988 scrap material which he bought from the government for $5.30, an 18,000 per cent profit.

The contractor had wrongfully represented the scrap as unsalable material, so he faces an action for payment to Uncle Sam of another $1,982.79.

Pretty amounts?

Well, take the case of a contractor who handed the government a bill for $1,116,341 in unpaid contract claims.

He had deliberately falsified records and his bill was cut to $941,000. But, Warren's aides found that even this was too high by $84,408 "in wanton disregard" of the government's interests.

Warren said that claims which the government seeks to recover now total more than $2,000,000. He indicated, however, that the fraud figure will multiply when all war contract settlements are scrutinized.

Longshoremen Vote Ban On Shipments to Reds

NEW YORK, July 17 (INS)—The AFL International Longshoremen's Ass'n voted today to boycott shipments to Russian and satellite ports if American foreign policy demands it.

The union's 34th annual convention decided to refuse to load ships bound for "ports of totalitarian and aggressor nations" if the U. S. found it necessary to adopt a firm anti-Soviet policy.

U. S. Plans to Coordinate Private Relief to Poland

He said the plan was to assure that all gifts from Americans reached their intended sources.

Franco Plans Parley On Prisoner Release

MADRID, July 17 (INS)—An informed source said today that Generalissimo Franco will call a special cabinet meeting today to consider a general amnesty for Spanish political prisoners.

Injured Worker Saved by Pal

DETROIT, July 17 (AP)—Hundreds of passersby paused in Detroit's financial district to gaze tensely skyward as the savage thrust of a moving steel beam touched off a story of heroism and suffering among the men who walk the girders.

The swinging beam struck Frank Ryan, 32, father of two, crushing his leg as he worked at razing a downtown bank building 60 feet above the street on a small platform, three feet square.

As he was about to topple from his precarious perch, he was seized by his co-worker, Alfred Finck, who drew him back onto the platform. About 30 minutes later a fire dept. rescue squad lowered Ryan to the ground in a harness and he was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, where his condition was reported serious. Doctors said they hoped to save his leg.

BADLY HURT IN FALL

William O'Brien, 12, of Lark st., South Boston, was under treatment at City Hospital today for a possible brain concussion and a broken wrist after a 10-foot fall from an awning of a building in Old Colony ave.

Ingalls Denies Stock Trickery

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 17 (AP) —Alfred Wesley Ingalls denied at his federal slavery trial that he had used Dora Jones, Negro maid he and his wife are accused of enslaving, as a "dummy" to get telephone and copper mining stock into Mrs. Ingalls' name.

He said he "might have" purchased ten shares of telephone stock, which he continued to maintain was a gift for the Negro woman, from "the Sawyer estate" in Massachusetts, of which he was guardian.

The stock placed originally in Dora's name, the testimony showed, was eventually transferred to Mrs. Ingalls' name.

Runaway Lowell Girl, 18, Home

After a two-day absence from her home that led to a widespread search and the suspension of a star jockey at Suffolk Downs, Ann Demogenes, 18, of Wiggins st., Lowell, was safely back with her family today.

She was located by State Police in Windsor Locks, Ct., and members of the family explained she ran away because of their objections to her marrying Jose Espinosa, the jockey.

He was set down by the stewards at the track after one of the girl's sister had complained of her disappearance from home. Espinoza said he met Ann only two weeks ago at Revere Beach and had made no wedding plans.

Cambridge City Clerk Fred Burke said the girl appeared alone to file wedding intentions, but left the document partially uncompleted when she was unable to give details of Espinoza's background.

Prison Plot

the colony calls for five guards on duty inside the walls at night with one guard touring the outside in an auto.

It is believed the gang had contacted an outside source and at least one auto would be on hand at a prearranged spot.

Some 10 days ago guards became aware of a tense silence among many of the 700 inmates who had heard through the grapevine of the sensational attempted escape.

From rumors and the whispers of an informant, the guards traced the plot to Goldenberg, who was clapped into a solitary confinement cell for an 8-day spell on bread and water before he returns under heavy guard to State Prison in Charlestown.

Vincent, refusing to talk, was placed on bread and water, and after another seven days of solitary confinement will be shifted to the Charlestown prison.

Guards began a methodical check of every cell today while the 700-odd inmates were absent from the cell blocks. It was reported some of the keepers, unarmed and carrying only "pencils and pens" were uneasy over the discovery of dummy knives, wooden clubs and toy guns.

When Goldenberg and Vincent return to State Prison, it will be to the scene of their first failures in staging a break.

In 1931, Goldenberg tried to flee the Charlestown prison and failed. He is doing a life stretch for the murder of his girl friend, Lillian Franks of Malden, in 1931.

Vincent has been in jail since he was 17, when he entered Concord Reformatory for auto theft. He was paroled once but went back again after a brief spell of liberty.

In 1930, at the age of 20, he took part in a sensational break at Concord along with John F. Buchanan, 21, also of South Boston.

They slugged a guard over the head while at work in a shop and made good their escape Feb. 15, on a bitter cold afternoon. Both slept in an abandoned car that night and surrendered the next morning, half frozen, to a Concord policeman.

CONGDON HELD IN THEFT

Harold F. Congdon, former Salisbury police chief, was arraigned before Judge Gertrude Halloran in Quincy District Court on a charge of larceny of $800 worth of clams by means of a worthless check. Waiving reading of the complaint, he pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until July 30.

Mill Workers Meet, May Seek Pay Boost

Representatives of 149 New England and northern states cotton textile mills may get down to the important issue of salary today after a surprise announcement by a negotiating official that increases may be demanded, although only two months ago a no-boost policy was the keynote.

The door to salary jumps was opened at the Parker House by Emil Rieve, general manager of the CIO Textile Workers Union.

Since 400 delegates representing 90,000 New England workers at a Bradford Hotel convention, May 25 voted not to seek pay raises, Rieve said, living costs have skyrocketed, with rent and food costs leading the way.

Yesterday's meeting was the first between a big union and management since miners won unexpectedly large wage increases in new contracts negotiated by John L. Lewis.

Rieve called attention to the fact that it was his recommendation to the union at the May meeting which resulted in a vote not to seek wage increases as it appeared at that time the industry could not meet such demands and the union was interested in "balancing our economy by keeping prices in check."

Prices, he said, have not remained in check.

O'Dwyer Signs N. Y. Rent Curb Measure

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Rents of permanent guests in New York city hotels, apartment hotels and rooming and lodging houses were frozen at their June 30 levels under terms of a bill signed by Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Besides freezing rents, the new law also calls for the creation of a three-man temporary city housing rent commission to administer its provisions. It provides for penalties of a $500 fine or 90 days jail sentence for violations.

Hunt Hit-Run Driver In Fatal Accident

EAST WINTHROP, Me., July 17—Police today sought a hit-run driver who killed John Trahan, 25, of Winslow, in an odd accident on the state road.

Trahan was riding on the back of a motorcycle which hit an auto and hurled him to the pavement. Another auto ran over him and kept on going.

WHO'S RIGHT?

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Sec. of the Navy Forrestal said today that the service is so short of oil that it has ordered its ships to operate at the comparatively low speed of 15 knots.

Undersecretary John L. Sullivan, also taking part in the session, said the fuel situation looks hopeful. He pointed out, however, that combined military and civilian requirements for oil are higher by 600,000 barrels a month than they were at the war peak.

Girl, 14, Tells Of Coast 'Hike'

Louise Halliday, 14-year-old Washington st., South End, girl who hitch-hiked to California and then flew back with money wired by her father, explained today at her home that, "I just love to travel."

She disappeared last May 23 on her way to choir practice at the First Baptist Church in Clarendon st. She said an 18-year-old girl joined her on her trip but they separated when the older girl fell in love and became engaged while they were working at a "magic show" in Amarillo, Texas.

TURN ABOUT

BEAUMONT, Tex., July 17 (AP)—Jack Nolan borrowed a prisoner from the city jail to aid him in his duties as city dog catcher.

The prisoner begged Nolan's permission to step across the street for "a couple of minutes."

He failed to return.

Hours later Nolan found him—sitting on a jury in a justice court trial.

Dad of 5 Held As Bank Robber

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., July 17 (AP)—A father of five small children was arrested for investigation two hours after the First National Bank of Cripple Creek was robbed by a lone gunman and the cashier shot and stabbed.

Sheriff Cecil Markley said William Boethin, 25, of Colorado Springs, was held for further investigation.

Police said "several thousand dollars in currency was missing but that the exact amount could not be determined immediately. They reported that Boethin had no currency and no gun in his possession when arrested and ordered a search of the vicinity for the missing money.

Radcliffe Grads Sponsor Tour

MRS. T. MITCHELL HASTINGS, JR., of Newton Center has the most becoming coat of backyard suntan we've seen this summer.

Bobbie has ample space for sun basking right on her own estate in the Chestnut Hill woods and plenty of entertaining activity to enjoy while outdoors. She and Mitch have three saddle horses to ride over the bridle paths that wind around their six acres, a swimming pool and beautiful gardens they cultivate themselves.

This coming week-end they are looking forward to visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Mitchell Hastings of Commonwealth ave., at their summer home, The Box, Contoocook, N. H. Other guests at The Box are Mr. and Mrs. Drayton Phillips of New York with their two youngsters who are grandchildren of former Ambassador and Mrs. William Phillips of North Beverly, and Mr. and Mrs. Royall Victor of Long Island with three children. Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Victor are the former Polly and Isabel Gardiner of Boston, daughters of Mrs. Hastings, Sr., and cousins of Mrs. Larz Anderson who gave their coming out parties at her estate Weld in Brookline.

Mr. Hastings, Sr., Harvard '98, is a prominent artist. But long before he retired from architecture and took up painting seriously he was famous for his artistic contributions to the Harvard Lampoon of which he was president his senior year. His drawings for the cover and editorial page were used continuously for over 30 years.

BUT TO GET BACK to Mrs. Hastings Jr., who was Roberta Hubbard: she drove out to the opening of the Wellesley Summer Theater this week and wore a charming summer dinner dress of white linen with narrow shoulder straps to set off her lovely bronzy tan and blonde hair. Twin emerald clips were pinned to the corners of the square neckline.

Mrs. John Lyman

She was accompanied by Mrs John M. Hollett of Beacon st., and during intermission of the Jane Cowl play, "The First Mrs. Fraser," chatted with other enthusiastic theater fans, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bertelsen, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Leach, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. T. Woll. Messrs. Leach and Woll are active in the town of Wellesley's amateur dramatics in the wintertime.

THE WELLESLEY Summer Theater got off to a grand start with a band, speeches and an airplane salute on the college campus before the play in Alumnae Hall. F. Murray Forbes of Wellesley, a trustee of the college, had front row seats with Mrs. Forbes and nearby were their son, F. Murray, Jr., and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Lyman of Sherborn. Mrs. Forbes wore a turquoise and black flowered chiffon evening gown with a sheer black lace stole and Mrs. Lyman a fetching short dinner dress of gay flowered silk with an off shoulder neckline and Shepherdess skirt caught up in the front to reveal a ruffled black taffeta petticoat.

Debutante Barbara Bell attended with her parents and wore a becoming lime green cotton cocktail dress with a deeper green bolero.

RADCLIFFE ALUMNAE will be on hand to welcome visitors to a dozen interesting homes in Duxbury and Kingston July 23 at a tour of houses to benefit Radcliffe's 70th anniversary fund.

Mrs. Oliver Barker is chairman of the affair, assisted by Mrs. Charles Bittinger, Mrs. Arthur T. Chase, Mrs. H. Gilbert Francke, Mrs. Isaac Hatheway and Mrs. Archer O'Reilly.

Interesting homes to be open include the Seaver homestead in Kingston, built in 1760 and occupied through the years by seven generations of Seavers. Also the home of Maj. John Bradford, built in 1674 by the grandson of Gov. William Bradford of the Plymouth Colony. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Millar, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Francke of Duxbury are opening their interesting Colonial homes built around square chimneys.

CHURCHILL CHEERED

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—Winston Churchill was greeted enthusiastically when he returned to the House of Commons after his recent hernia operation.

U. S. Steel Agrees To Hold Price Line

HONOLULU, July 17 (AP)—U. S. Steel Corp. will not increase the price of steel until "a fair test" is made of cost factors created by the new coal wage agreement, Pres. Benjamin F. Fairless said on his arrival for a Hawaiian vacation.

Commenting on Pres. Truman's request that coal and steel producers withhold price increases "until a fair test is made," Fairless told interviewers: "That is exactly what we intend to do."

Fenway Traffic Circles Dropped

The traffic circles in the Fenway, slated to be built "without delay" as the first step in solving the city's traffic congestion, will not be built.

Temporary Mayor Hynes said plans for rotary circles near the Sears Roebuck store and another near Simmons College have been abandoned because of legal technicalities and financial difficulties. He said a decision on whether an underpass or a rotary circle will be built at Sullivan sq., Charlestown, will be made next Thursday.

Senate Votes Drive On River Pollution

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—A bill aimed at cleaning up polluted streams was approved unanimously by the Senate and sent to the House.

The measure would empower the surgeon general of the public health service to co-operate with other federal agencies and with states and local governments in setting up a comprehensive anti-pollution program.

Legion Blasts House Group As Draft Foes

By DAN MARKEL
Boston American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 17—A congressional subcommittee headed by Rep. Forest A. Harness (R.) of Indiana, was accused of "hitting below the belt" in an attempt to "sabotage" universal military training.

The charge came from Col. John Thomas Taylor, national legislative director of the American Legion, as Harness re-opened hearings on the Army's UMT information program.

While Congress was speeding through a great volume of legislation Harness and committee counsel Frank T. Bow dropped everything to grill Mrs. Arthur Woods mother of three war veterans, and a War Dept. employe on her talks to women's groups on Army training plans. She was grilled for more than an hour.

Although only newsmen, witnesses and anti-training lobbyists attended the hearing, which was held in the office of Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R.) of Ohio Harness had two policemen on guard throughout the interrogation.

The subcommittee chairman implied Mrs. Woods had attempted to "influence legislation," and cited a 75-year-old law against such activities on the part of a federal employe.

"I have endeavored to inform parents, particularly mothers, the truth about the Army's training plans," Mrs. Woods replied. "The desire of people everywhere to have factual information on this subject has amazed me."

The committee counsel also criticized American Legion publication of an "advertisement" in the Legionnaire that Army films on the experimental training camp at Fort Knox, Ky., are available to organizations.

The Legion struck back after the hearing.

"Methods being used by the Harness committee are not only untimely but a serious effort to interfere with the development of a national security program that is desperately needed under present world conditions," Taylor countered.

Universal Training Demanded by VFW

WASHINGTON, July 17—The United States will be a "shorn Sampson" pitifully weak and open to aggressors unless universal training is adopted, the Veterans of Foreign Wars told Congress today

VFW officials testified before the sub-committee of the House committee on the armed services.

"Without military training we will be taking a chance on war—with the cards stacked against us," Omar B. Ketchum, national VFW legislative director, said.

National Commander Louis E. Starr, and Francis X. Burke, World War II Congressional Medal of Honor holder and VFW's national security chairman, backed Ketchumu's statements.

Ketchum said the 2,000,000 members of VFW, all of whom have fought on foreign soil, demand UMT enactment.

International Soaring Mark Set by American

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., July 17 (AP)—The first International soaring record ever set by an American was believed accomplished here by Paul B. MacCready of New Haven, who completed a "go and return" flight of 232 miles.

His flight, if confirmed by officials at the 14th annual National soaring meet here, surpasses by approximately 20 miles the record of 212 miles held by Boris Kimmelman, a Russian.

New Landing Fees List Prepared

The State Dept. of Public Works prepared today to present the Mass. Aeronautics Commission with new and increased schedules for landing fees and other levies at Logan International Airport, as the head of the Chamber of Commerce warned that such action might nullify Boston as a port of call on international flights.

State Public Works Comr. William H. Bracker said the new schedule would be presented to the MAC before the end of the week but added that the rates would not be made public until the governor and the executive council acted on them.

Michael T. Kelleher, president of the Chamber of Commerce opposed the increases stating: "All of us want to see Logan Airport pay its way. But this cannot be achieved by a test period of a series of unsound, unworkable schemes, tried to a point where air carriers, local ground transportation interests and the general public writes off Boston as an irresolutely managed airport."

Mrs. M. Maginnis Rites Set Friday

LAWRENCE, July 17—Funeral services for Mrs. Martha Maginnis of Cherry st., whose son died in a Japanese prisoner of war camp, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Grace Episcopal Church.

Her granddaughter, Marjorie Abbott, 11, was killed by an auto in Salem, N. H., last Thursday.

CROFT DISH OF THE WEEK
Number 19

Armando
Chef de Cuisine

Chicken is a popular summertime dish that can be cooked at home several different ways . . . fried, broiled or roasted. But for variety and a change for your family, it is appetizing to serve this old favorite in some new way. One deliciously different variation is "Breast of Chicken Casino. We asked Armando, Chef de Cuisine at the Casino, how he prepares this taste tempting dish and you'll find his recipe below, so you can prepare and serve it at home, this summer.

• • •

And when you do, be sure you have plenty of CROFT CREAM ALE to serve right along with it. CROFT is brewed to blend with food and there's nothing more tasty and satisfying than Breast of Chicken Casino and rich, golden glasses of chilled creamy CROFT.

• • •

But be sure it's CROFT . . . because this aged and mellowed ale makes any food taste better. CROFT goes with the best of everything . . . mealtime, thirst-time, anytime.

• • •

Order by the case! Your dealer has CROFT CREAM ALE in economy family quart and twelve ounce bottles and cans. Keep it on ice. Serve it often.

• • •

This summer . . . keep cool with CROFT.

PROMOTING INFLATION

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S gratuitous statement on coal and steel prices is a very curious—and also a very damaging and very demagogic—document. Its most appalling aspect is that it reveals the President as a complete economic illiterate.

Stripped of its useless and circumlocutory verbiage, the President's statement says the coal mines and steel mills should pay the higher wages exacted by John L. Lewis, under the incubus of reduced working hours, without increasing coal and steel prices.

This is not only a boost for Mr. Lewis—It is also an administration avowment of the CIO doctrine, advocated by Walter Reuther, Henry Wallace and the Communists, that wage increases ad lib. can be paid out of profits, EVEN THOUGH THERE BE NO PROFITS IN SIGHT.

Mr. Truman evinces his pure amateurism when he says:

"The risk involved by continuing present prices of coal and steel long enough to learn what the increased costs of production will actually be under the new wage agreement is not serious, especially in view of the fact that such action will greatly reduce the hazards of renewed inflation."

ANY BUSINESSMAN is smart enough to know that it is not necessary to operate a coal mine or a steel mill at a loss in order to learn that a loss will occur.

A sheet of paper, a lead pencil and the ability to add up any kind of figures besides Federal debts and confiscatory Federal taxes are all that is needed to find the answer to such an elementary problem in commercial school arithmetic.

Furthermore, Mr. Truman most lamentably shows that he—like nearly every New Dealer—either does not know or will not acknowledge what inflation really is.

His implied assertion is that high prices are inflation. But if that be true, then so are high wages.

The obvious fact is that high prices and high wages are not inflation at all but are merely symptoms of the ruinous disease.

And the primary fact is that the New Deal itself is the author and incubator of inflation, ignorantly or perversely fostering the destructive process by the combined New Deal policies of Socialism and deficit financing.

As a Missourian, Mr. Truman presumably belongs to the "Show Me" school of Pendergastian politics.

But, short of national bankruptcy, how much more does he need to be shown?

ADVANCE, FRIEND!

TWENTY-NINE years ago most of the 3000 delegates and alternates to the 29th annual state convention of the American Legion were separated from service. Then we affectionately called them "The Boys." Today, strolling in Boston's streets we see their uniformed figures more portly, their jovial faces more wrinkled and once lush growths of hair definitely AWOL, or heavily tinged with gray.

And today they are still "The Boys" to us. Watch them parade Saturday. They still can take it even under the burden of heat and humidity.

That "The Boys of the Legion" still retain our affection throughout these long and parlous years is easy to understand. They have been sorely-needed ballast for the rocking old Ship of State. It is easy to understand, too, why their organization has been so detested by the Brother Rats of the Left who have been so determinedly bent on scuttling the ship. First, last and always, "The Boys" have been for America First. Wise in their generation they have stoutly resisted the insidious doctrines—spawned in Moscow and aimed at the dissolution of democracy—that have too often found acceptance among our highly-placed.

It's a source of deep comfort to realize that "The Boys" of World War II will be handed down a tradition of Americanism that will play a tremendous part in weathering the alien storm now so plainly forecast on the world's weather map.

PASSING BY: Irene Dunne. The Kentucky Duse. This year she celebrates the twentieth anniversary of her marriage to Dr. Francis Dennis Griffin. Irene has recently been elected president of that highly exclusive Hollywood organization the "Always Club." To be eligible to this an actress must have had only one marriage, and that marriage must have lasted at least 10 years . . . Mary Chase. Once a newspaper reporter. Now a playwright with an income of $1500 a week from one play which is that super duper smash hit "Harvey." At the time she wrote this play, she was also handling all the domestic details involved in caring for a husband and three small children. Mary always was a smart girl. She graduated from high school when 15 years old.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Where can I get an American springer spaniel? A—There is no such breed. Only English and Welsh springers. However, there are American cocker spaniels. Q—Who took the photograph of the U. S. flag being planted on top of Mount Suribachi, Iwo Jima? A—Joe Rosenthal, San Francisco news photographer. Q—My wife likes ice cream on hot cakes. What do you think of that? A—Sounds like an interesting combination. What effect does it have on her schoolgirl figure? Or does she care? Q—I know where Casablanca is but where is Casabianca? A—Never heard of any place with latter name. However, the hero of the poem including the immortal line, "The boy stood on the burning deck" was named Casablanca. It is possible a town somewhere may have been named after him but I never heard of it.

SAYS SHE: The British bride of a GI Joe from California says she thinks Los Angeles, where her husband and self are now living, is "wonderful in every way." About the only thing she objects to is the habit of some residents of the city of throwing used chewing gum on the sidewalks. Practically every time she goes shopping, she gets some chewing gum stuck on her shoe. She thinks there should be a law against tossing used chewing gum on the sidewalk, just as there is one against spitting. I agree with her.

DOWN UNDER: In Australia brancnes for race track betting will be established somewhat similar to those long in operation in Paris. Bets made away from the track all go into the total mutuel pool at the race course. In Australia all branches will have small "tote" boards which will be hooked up with the large "tote" board at the track. So every time the odds are changed at the track they will also be changed at all branches. All betting made at the branches will be taxed by the government. New York city should put that system into effect. It would do much to solve the big town's tax problems. In New York city, there must be at least $10,000,000 a day bet on the horses away from the tracks.

ARGUMENTS: Writes the father of a GI Joe: "Ever since my son has returned from overseas, he has questioned practically every statement I make. Never saw such an argumentative fellow. However, I have learned by checking on the situation that most fathers of ex-GI Joes are in a similar situation. The latest argument is as to whether rubbing olive oil on the face before shaving helps to get a good shave. I say it does, because that has been my experience. My sons says there's nothing to it. That I just imagine it has given me a better shave. That there is a 'psychological angle' to it. What can you do with a fellow like that?"

BRIEFLY: Note it stated the only mute ever to be a major league ballplayer was pitcher "Dummy" Taylor of the Giants. Wasn't there once a mute outfielder in the majors named "Dummy" Hoy? . . . Am asked what is the rating, on the list of the 70 different kinds of blondes, of the "Hot Butter Blonde." This type of blonde has not been listed. Our Horses & Women experts say they never heard of it.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, July 17—Resuming my discussion of the peculiar relationship between one phase of our journalism and the underworld of the entertainment trades, I refer now to a tribute to a departed pal written by Ed Sullivan, the chief pundit of the New York Daily News in this realm, when he was similarly employed by the late New York Graphic in June, 1929.

Westbrook Pegler

At that time, Frank Marlow had been murdered in the traditional way. He was a New York gangster and bootlegger of the prohibition era. He had operated prizefighters, including Johnny Wilson, for a time the middleweight champion, slot machines and night clubs, in New York and Boston.

The most notorious of these was the Silver Slipper in New York which was the professional cradle of some of the most distinguished radio artists of the present day. He had owned a few race horses and raced them and was a heavy bettor. He had deserted his wife. His reputation was bad except among those who admire racketeers. On June 24 Marlow was found dying at the gate of a cemetery with three bullets in his head.

SULLIVAN admired him rapturously. So he wrote, "Along Broadway they are selling extras telling of Frank Marlow's death, and yet some of us almost expect to see his fine eyes crinkle in a pleased smile and to hear his cheery 'hello, pardner,' a salutation that was not paralleled on Broadway for pure warmth of feeling . . . to some, Frank Marlow was a racketeer, beyond the pale of society . . . to us, who rejoiced in his friendship, he was an eager, impulsive, loyal friend. To sit at a table in a night club, to watch his eyes sparkle with pleasure, to hear him gently teasing the little blonde-haired girl with whom he was head over heels in love, to observe the solicitude with which he looked after each one of his guests . . ."

A NEWS CLIPPING of about the same date reports that Marlow's wife at their small, suburban home, stated that he had been home only twice in ten years.

"He belonged, by preference to the aristocracy of the rackets," his eulogist continues, "and yet he had qualities of mind and emotion that set him apart from the ordinary run of us. In danger he had sharpened his sense of loyalty to a fine edge; in stress he had learned that of all earthly things, friendship is the most highly prized and carefully protected. He had detected the futility of sham and pose. Perhaps his talents and courage could have been turned to better account, but loyalty, thoughtfulness, gentleness are prized wherever they are found. The headlines shriek that he knew Rothstein, that he was an intimate of Capone. Our hearts tell us that we have lost a friend and whole-souled comrade, a pardner, in the complete sense of the word, an ace."

"Money, however, meant very little to him," Sullivan wrote, though a little of it, of course, might have meant much to the wife of this loyal, merry, generous, whole-souled comrade.

"GOOD-BYE, FRANK, and God bless you," he sobbed after one of the most brutal racketeers of his time in New York. And his adulation continues down to the present, for only the other day he fell to recalling a brave moment when Marlow slapped the late Linky Mitchell across the mouth for swearing in the presence of the ladies in the Silver Slipper. This essay reveals not only a prideful intimacy with many of the worst gangsters of the Prohibition time but a wistful envy of the toughness of hoodlums generally.

THERE IS ANOTHER LINE for guidance in Sullivan's comments on the case of Henry Lustig, a racketeer, profiteer and tax-dodger who operated the Longchamps restaurants and who frequents the sort of resorts in which Sullivan finds his social life and peers.

Nov. 2, he reports that "government and local" politicians are exerting "strong pressure" on the State Liquor Authority to save Lustig's license. He comments, sarcastically, that Lustig might even get the medal of merit for his $2,872,000 swindle.

On Nov. 14, Sullivan publishes a long letter from Allen Lustig, explaining how necessary it was that they keep the license so that they could make restitution to the government.

"It would aid us tremendously if you would aid us," the letter says.

He promptly began to aid. The same day he wrote that the Liquor Authority's charges were technical and trivial. On Dec. 7 he wrote that the revocation of the license, according to law, "doesn't make sense and won't stand up." On March 3, he quoted an unidentified owner of a night club, who might be another of his heroes of the Marlow type, who said this was "persecution."

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 17 — A contract due to be signed any minute is that of Barbara Stanwyck and M-G-M. The fact that Barbara goes to the studio where her husband, Robert Taylor, is one of the leading lights does not mean that her first picture will be with him. No, indeed!

Barbara Stanwyck

I heard right through the grapevine that Barbara will be Clark Gable's co-starring partner in "The Homecoming."

Let me be the first to congratulate Clark and Barbara, too, for that will be a team worth while. Later in this column I am telling you what the story of "The Homecoming" is about.

I SHOULD THINK it was a little early for Carey Wilson, producer of "Raintree County," the Ross Lockridge novel that won the $150,000 M-G-M contest, to set a cast.

Yet, today at Metro, the little Indians lined up for the cast for this novel, which is about American Indians, were given me as Lana Turner, Ava Gardner and newcomer Janet Leigh, plus Gene Kelly, Robert Walker, Van Heflin and Richard Hart. Some tomahawks!

The runner-up, "About Lyddy Thomas" by Maritta Wolf, which rates second prize, will be produced by Leon Gordon, but he hasn't gotten around to mentioning a cast.

I MET Tennessee Williams who was lunching with Charles Feldman. The author of "Glass Menagerie" and "A Street Car Called Desire" was discussing the casting of "Glass Menagerie" with Feldman who is making it into a picture. Both he and Charlie would love to have Helen Hayes. Might as well wish for the moon.

While here, Mr. Tennessee—and isn't that a lovely name—will confer with Irene Selznick who is casting "A Street Car Called Desire," which will be one of Broadway's fall shows. He says John Garfield has been discussed for the Selznick play. John should be triplets with all the offers coming his way.

CLARK GABLE stopped by for a talk. He leaves tomorrow on a fishing trip to angle for some albacore that are now running in deep sea. He refused a cocktail and drank a cup of coffee.

"I'm on the wagon," he said. "I want to get thin for my next picture, 'The Homecoming.'"

He looked very thin to me and very fit. He is happy over "The Hucksters," and the reports from fans.

"What's 'Homecoming' about?" I asked him.

"I play a society doctor who only takes care of the very rich. He just isn't interested in poor patients. Then comes the war. He goes overseas and his whole philosophy and outlook on life is changed."

Sounds like good Gable drama, and I said as much.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The redheaded dancer, Marc Platt, who made his debut on the screen with Rita Hayworth in "Tonight and Every Night," is back from Rochester, Minn., where he has been receiving treatment at the Mayo Clinic. He has a torn ligament in his leg, which he sustained while rehearsing with Rita in "Down to Earth."

Now that he's back, he and Mrs. Platt will discuss their future plans. I talked with her and she said she didn't want to say anything about their trouble until she had seen Marc. In other words, she wants any statement to come from both of them, which is mighty fair, I think.

George Stevens is a pal—but then, he should be. Isn't he my old friend Ashton Stevens' nephew? George let me see a very small part of "I Remember Mama," and oh, it's terrific!

Harriet Parsons said, "Now don't you say anything in the column." George said, "It's all right if you want to say something."

Well, I love what I saw. Irene Dunne is just wonderful. Her accent is so believable, and she wears no makeup nor does she glamorize herself. On the set I met Edgar Bergen. He is very funny as the amorous undertaker.

Also met Oscar Homolka, whose uncle Chris in "I Remember Mama" on the stage was a classic. Ellen Corby was wearing the funny boa Edgar was supposed to have given her. I won't tell what George Stevens said it looked like. I'm a lady.

And Barbara Bel Geddes as Katrina—that girl is sure to be one of our top stars. In fact, I liked everything but Uncle Elizabeth, the cat.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Hey, Ann Gillis! Wherever you are honeymooning, listen to this! You are wanted for a test for a good part in "Good Sam" with Gary Cooper. Get in touch with Leo McCarey immediately—that is, if your bridegroom, Paul Seibel, will let you work.

There's a strong rumor that Leo Durocher is considering a very good offer in the sports world, but not baseball. The announcement may come along any day.

John Wayne, who's been very ill with ulcers, now has a sprained ankle, so he's had to postpone his trip to Arizona for John Ford's picture, "War Party."

The son of Curt Bernhardt was badly injured in a fall from a horse at Big Bear. Bob Taylor, the hero in the case, flew his own plane and brought the child back to a hospital for treatment.

Frank Fay gets here tomorrow to vacation and talk over a few movie deals.

Vivica Lindfors

Vivica Lindfors, Delmer Daves and the rest of the troupe of "To the Victor" landed in Paris on Bastille Day. Dennis Morgan, who refused to sail because the berths on the Queen Elizabeth were too small, flew over and was there waiting to meet them.

Had luncheon with Sheila Graham and Charles McCabe, publisher of the New York Daily Mirror. Sheila writes a column for the Mirror, and we had a lot of fun.

The girl who has Lon McCallister's heart is Eeta Linden. He met her during the war when he was stationed in the East. She's here now and was the first passenger in his new convertible car.

The Dan Dailey heir or heiress is due in a month and will be named either Dan or Elizabeth, but will not be called junior.

Van and Evie Johnson with the George Murphys, were at the cafe Jay at the beach. Evie says the baby is due in January, probably before Van's birthday, Jan. 25.

Mel Ferrer flew down to La Jolla to replace Bernard Szold, director of "Dear Ruth." Seems that Guy Madison and Szold had a blow-up Thursday and Ferrer was sent to take over.

Aileen Gates, Johnnie Weissmuller's girl friend, left today for Mexico where he is on location with "Tarzan and the Mermaid."

Boston After Dark

"THE BRAHMINS" AND "COLD ROAST BEEF Boston" are two of the three terms used to describe the social register set in Holiday's beautifully illustrated 32-page story of Boston in the issue just on the stands . . . Whether the other appellation, "Codfish" to describe "the old Yankee families," is permitted to pass without challenge by the stockholders of the Howard Athenaeum is a question . . . Throughout his story on Boston, Benjamin Russell has a half-nelson on what obviously is his pet name for the Mayflower descendants . . . "Codfish politicians," "Codfish families" and "Codfish Bostonians" are the references used by Author Russell as his story first unreels . . . Later in his article, he calls the Brahmins "Codfish"—just Codfish—and lets it go at that . . . For example: "Many younger generation Codfish" is the way he begins Paragraph 2, Column 2, on Page 36 . . . "While most younger generation "Codfish," is the beginning of the next paragraph . . . Then, later; (Page 29, Col. 3): "Indeed, so shoulder-to-shoulder are the Irish and the Codfish in matters pertaining to Boston's past," etc.

A LOWER case "codfish" appears in the text of Page 40 when the writer tells of the Parker House specialties such as "New England boiled dinner, broiled honeycomb tripe and, of course, codfish" . . . On Page 41, Author Russell's devotion to his piscatorial monicker for the so-called George Apley set gets really out of hand . . . He refers to the president of one of our great financial institutions in this wise: "Mr. So-and-So is not a Codfish living in the past, but a self-made man who came to Boston from New Jersey." . . . In the next paragraph he refers to the "Puritanical Codfish."

BUT THE author really gets malicious on the codfish subject when he relates a story, undoubtedly apocryphal about an alleged suggestion made by an anti-dog-racing legislator . . . This solon suggested (says Mr. Benjamin) that the "huge replica of a codfish, the Sacred Cod, which hangs in the House of Representatives as a symbol of the state's gratitude for its meaty bounty, be replaced by a stuffed greyhound" . . . Mr. Benjamin and his editors probably thought the biographer of Boston was being pretty funny in his reiteration of "Codfish" upper-and-lower case . . . We prefer to heckle the accuracy of the usage rather than quibble over the validity of some assorted senses of humor . . . Good-naturedly and in a spoofing way, a Boston writer infrequently may use the term "Codfish aristocracy" to describe the descendants of the early settlers.

IN 30 YEARS of working for the newspapers, this corner never has seen or heard the unadorned word "Codfish" used in Boston to distinguish the city's social-register minority from other segments of the population . . . On Easter Monday, for instance, it is not common usage in the Boston press to report: "Prominent Codfish in Tall Hats and Easter Finery Stroll Down the Mall!" . . . It never occurs to this corner to write of "young Codfish seen at the Ritz Bar after the premiere were (giving their names)!" . . . Nor do the society columns carry paragraphs about a "truly brilliant gathering of generations of Codfish assembled at the Somerset Louis XV ballroom as Miss G. Reenpolk Adot made her formal bow to society."

AND EXCEPT for a delectable dish served some mornings for breakfast at the Parker House and the Ritz-Carlton—a dish in which the snow-white tasty flakes of the deep-sea cod are merged with potatoes and patted into cakes—we do not recall that the word "codfish" appears on many Boston menus. Author Benjamin should have done more research . . . In Boston, he should know, codfish is SACRED . . . As we re-read the foregoing to make corrections, we intend to substitute "Scrod" for "Codfish" wherever the unglamorous latter word appears.

POSTSCRIPT: Having substituted "Scrod" for "Codfish" as we read copy, your reporter demands that Mr. Benjamin and Holiday Magazine apologize publicly to every person in the Boston Social Register.

WASHINGTON, July 17—Oswald Ryan, vice-chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, called up and asked if I intended to be among those present at the Library of Congress on July 26 when the 15,000 secret papers of Abraham Lincoln are to be opened.

I said I did not think so because, while I am a nosy type, I am not so nosy as to want to wade through 15,000 documents which have been moldering in a cupboard for four score years and two.

"I think you would be wise to give it a miss," agreed Mr. Ryan. "I bet they will turn out to be extremely unexciting."

"That isn't what the bibliographers, or whatever you call them guys that revel in other people's mail, are guessing," I objected. "They seem to think Mr. Lincoln's private papers will be loaded with dynamite; that they may even contain evidence of Secretary of War Stanton's guilt in Lincoln's assassination and impute illegitimate birth to Lincoln's mother."

"If they do," retorted Mr. Ryan, "I didn't know Robert Todd Lincoln!"

"That naturally gives rise to a question," I said. "Did you know Robert Todd Lincoln!"

"I certainly did," declared Mr. Ryan. "I used to be secretary to the late Sen. Albert J. Beveridge, of Indiana."

"That is wildly interesting," I said. "I thought you had spent your life ordering airlines to ground Constellations."

"No," replied Mr. Ryan. "I assisted Sen. Beveridge in compiling data for his book on Abraham Lincoln, which many consider one of the most authoritative works on the martyred President."

"If this a book plug," I cut in. "You can skip it."

"Rats!" snapped Mr. Ryan. "What I am trying to tell you is that Sen. Beveridge tried practically every form of persuasion on Robert Todd Lincoln for permission to examine these papers but Robert said that no one would ever get a look at them.

"As a matter of fact he had been burning a huge raft of papers the day we visited him. The Senator and I were convinced he had finally decided to burn them after our importunities, to remove all danger of their ever falling into the hands of outsiders.

"Robert Todd Lincoln," continued Mr. Ryan, "devoted his life to defending and protecting his father's memory. I am convinced he went through those papers with a fine tooth comb and destroyed every one that would reflect on his parent."

I asked what he thought the remaining papers might reveal.

"Nothing that hasn't been in a hundred history books," he replied. "If I am wrong I shall be much surprised."

I will thank you to bear in mind that if the Lincoln papers do turn out to contain dynamite, it was Mr. Ryan who did the faulty prognosticating—not me!

THE WEEKLY CLIPSHEET of the Methodist Board of Temperance contributes this offering:

"In 1918, Mr. David Lilienthal, head of the atomic energy commission, participated in an interstate prohibition oratorical contest and won it."

Too bad Sen. McKellar didn't know about this or he might have blocked the Lilienthal nomination.

The same informative clipsheet also has this:

"You can take a solution of alcohol so weak that you can put it in your eye without harm, but if you drink it, it will have a measurable effect upon your brain."

Next time you put a drink in your eye don't forget to add a couple of slices of fresh pineapple and a dash of bitters.

On second thought, I think you should experiment with someone beside yourself first. I suggest you try it in a pig's eye.

MRS. JOSEPH R. FARRINGTON, wife of the delegate from Hawaii, says that numerology absolutely insures passage of the bill granting statehood to Hawaii.

It can't help passing, she declares, because of the following: She's 49; her husband's 49; the Senate bill is No. S. 49; it will take 49 Senators to pass it—and Hawaii will become the 49th state in the union.

Mrs. Farrington ought to get into the numbers racket.

MR. LEON RAESLY, the publicist, writes:

"Dear Mr. Dixon: I would appreciate it if you would check the rumor that because of reductions in appropriations and personnel layoffs, the secretaries to little wigs in the government bureaus are answering the boss's phone when it rings by saying: 'For whom doth the bell toll?'"

Copeland's 'Sculptured' Gowns Make Big Hit

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, THURS., JULY 17, 1947

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

NEW YORK, July 17—"Fashion decrees," that elusive but authoritative and not-to-be-kicked-around byword of top-flight designers, has arbitrarily set two "looks" for fall and winter . . . the slim, mummy-wrapped, or the full and round.

But Jo Copeland of Pattullo Modes goes it one better and offers the sculptured look.

For no sculptor could chisel a hunk of marble more precisely and with finer lineal detail than Jo Copeland does in her dresses, specifically designed to fit the form divine as snugly as the paper on the wall.

This is no derisive comment on the Pattullo Modes collection, but a high tribute, for the clothes by Copeland are refreshingly simple of line, although spiked with blinding sophistication. Just how a woman a few pounds overweight is going to look in these virtually skin-tight, beautiful silks and crepes is that woman's personal problem. Suffice to say, the models looked naughty but nice.

In clothes by Jo Copeland, a woman must develop an undulating rhythm to her walk. She can't take leisurely strides in the narrow, "long-stemmed" skirts, that's certain. Of course, the slinky, sliding, graceful pedal advance is but a foregone necessity of the woman so cloaked and robed.

There are no clothes for the hippy gal. Hips must sway above the narrow skirts. And they are surprisingly very narrow at the bottom hemline. For the most part, Jo Copeland has committed her designs to the narrow look around the mid-calf.

In evening clothes, she goes to the other extreme and exercises a lavish hand in distributing yards and yards of fabric around the ankles.

Wrapped, revealing lines, swooshes of beautiful silks, poised like huge butterflies on the figure after it has been sinuously encased in a cocoon of fabric, all give the fall and winter collection of Jo Copeland a one-line perfection.

And those swooshes are conversational, placed in the most astounding locale. For instance, one black crepe dinner dress, an almost straight up-and-down affair, has a swoosh of figured yellow taffeta strewn across the tummy-front of the gown. It juts out in all its stiff crispness to achieve a figure profile that is, surprisingly, not unbecoming.

A black fringe dress which wraps the figure in narrow bands of silk fringe and moves with the mood of the body is fashion set to music—anatomical swing and sway.

It is pretty apparent that Jo Copeland likes to underwrite motion in her clothes.

However slim the silhouette, there is always that rippling cascade of inverted cone-shaped material folded to produce that motion for the wearer as she walks. This diversity appears in costume ensembles in broadcloth, in crepe and in the new re-faille material, exclusively used by Jo Copeland.

This designer resorts once more to her long-time favorites, the peg-top and draped up skirts, but gives them new treatment, such as pulling the fabric upward at the front with a frill above a narrow belt.

This occurs in a brick red wool suit-dress with a black curved jacket. A black crepe dress has a sari border of woven gold outlining the diagonal front drape and slashing across the bodice.

Jo Copeland is one of the few designers who shows both bluish and golden reds, feeling, she says, that red is a basic color and should be made adaptable to all skin tones. Brick red in wool and crepe is shown in many costumes, alone and in combination with black and brown.

She also features fuchsia for day and evening, notably in a wool jacket and skirt, expertly tapered everywhere, with amusing brass-ring buttons on the jacket. The buttons look like miniature brass knockers.

Again the Pattullo modes designer combines two fabrics, such as wool and satin, or wool and taffeta or faille. These appear in dresses with moulded tops or closed midriffs of contrasting satin, taffeta or faille, balanced by a big butterfly bow

CAPES . . . which seem to be the fall signature of Samuel Kass in new suits . . . take to wristlength in this smart number. The cape buttons in to slim jackets to add a dashing note . . . and sound practicality. This one in gray wool has a small collar of black astrakan . . . button fastening and a fantail back on the jacket. The cape is lined with black satin. And a look at the skirt-length should convince you . . . it is longer, longer, longer for fall.

AN INTERESTING departure from the classic is taken by Samuel Kass who replaces the usual town classic with this black wool suit (shown below) with a removable cape . . . buttoning on at the jacket shoulders . . . in his new season collection applauded this week by the nation's fashion press. Cape lining is electric blue wool. Black braid embroidery adds a feminine touch on collar.

WRAPPY LOOK . . . one of the new ways to look for fall . . . is superimposed in the tubular silhouette by Jo Copeland in her fall and winter array for Pattullo Modes. This black crepe sheath has a diagonal cuff at the hip through which a wide band of black satin is pulled . . . to tie in a huge bow. Whoops, my dear! Rhinestone link buttons at the neck add the glitter touch.

Soothing Lotion for Summer Eye Care

WE DO A LOT of typewriter talking about eyes in summertime . . . because, obviously, they take a terrible beating when the sun is high and strong and squinting is an almost foregone conclusion. Even though you cloud your eyes behind smoke-colored glasses . . . the sun gets around them to place stress and strain on the orbs.

While it is perfectly possible for any woman to keep her eyes beautiful and dramatic for a lifetime, summer and winter, if she understands how to care for them . . . so few women really do.

If you've got squint-lines, fatigue creases and nervous tension in and around the eyes where these saboteurs of beauty usually lodge themselves . . . don't keep them. And don't take them . . . as so many do . . . for granted. If you are fat, you don't have to stay fat unless you have an organic deficiency.

Your eyes don't need to suffer unless you refuse to protect them. For instance . . . one of the finest eye preparations we know of is a cool, soothing lotion that is the extract of some downright goodies. Delicious, natural ingredients . . . taken from the summer fields and woods . . . are part of its wonderful formula for which eyes have a definite affinity.

Magical properties extracted from grapes, honey, camomile and fresh water lillies make this amber-colored lotion ideal for sun-strained eyes . . . and a safeguard of eye beauty. And one of the foremost pioneers in the beauty world developed this lotion with all those unbelievable extracts included in its refreshing and soothing goodness.

Just saturate cotton pads with it . . . and place lightly over your eyes. Lie down and relax . . . then watch those squint-lines, fatigue creases and nervous tension disappear! Use it at home . . . or on the beach when you are reclining on the sands. You can then, safely, tempt the sun!—R. M.

For the name of this honey and fresh-water-lily lotion for eye-beauty, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, daily except week-end, or write to Ruth Muggleboo, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cold Drink, Dessert Needed

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

THOSE DAYS are here again—days when concentration takes wing and ambition goes into a tailspin. The sultry heat of July makes thoughts wander off to vacation-time and methods for keeping cool.

Fortunes have been made on "keeping cool"—electric fans, hot weather fashions, air conditioning and such-like. And reputations have been made, too, on the "home front" with homemakers and hostesses winning well deserved laurels by managing to make home a cool place to come to.

There are lots of little tricks like airing the house and pulling the window shades before old Sol runs up his temperature, like summerizing the furnishings with light drapes and slip covers, and making the dinner table fall in with this keep-cool theme.

And the homemaker who always has something cold to drink for the tired and thirsty refrigerator raiders, and who plans to have something pretty and tasty for a summer's day dessert is certainly "on the beam."

NECTAR PUNCH

3 cups chilled apricot whole fruit nectar 2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup chilled root beer
8 thin slices fresh peach

Combine nectar, lemon juice and root beer and stir to blend. Pour into 8 chilled glasses. Add a slice of fresh peach to each glass. Makes 8 servings.

PLANTATION MILK SHAKE

¼ cup peanut butter
1 tbsp. sugar Dash salt
½ tsp. vanilla 2 cups milk

Place peanut butter, sugar and salt in bowl; add ¼ cup of the milk, whip with rotary beater or electric mixer until smooth. Add remaining milk gradually; beat until smooth. Add vanilla. Chill in covered jar in refrigerator until ready to use. When serving, top each glass with dash of nutmeg. Makes 2 tall glasses. Sugar may be used in place of honey.

CHERRY TOPPED PEACHES

1 cup syrup from canned red cherries Few grains salt
½ cup granulated sugar
2 tbsp. cornstarch
2 to 3 drops almond extract
1 cup canned pitted red cherries
6 to 8 canned cling peach halves

Heat cherry syrup. Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt, add to syrup, and cook and stir until clear and thickened. Remove from heat. Add flavoring and cherries. Chill. Serve on drained peach halves. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

BUTTERCRISP ICE CREAM

2 cups crisp rice cereal
3 tbsp. brown sugar
½ cup chopped nutmeats
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 qt. vanilla ice cream

Crush crispy rice cereal into fine crumbs; mix with brown sugar and nutmeats. Melt butter in heavy frying pan; add cereal mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar melts and caramelizes slightly. Cool and crumble. Fold into partially frozen ice cream after record beating. If commercial ice cream is used, allow to soften slightly. Stir in crumbled cereal mixture and pack in refrigerator trays or in paper cups. Freeze. Makes 8 servings (1¾ cups butter crisp mixture).

HOLLYWOOD PARADE

1 pint orange juice
1 pint orange sherbet
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 pint chilled ginger ale

Beat orange juice, sherbet and ice cream with whirl-type beater until well mixed. Add ginger ale. Stir and serve at once from punch bowl. Makes 10 servings.

Woman Injured, CIO Pays $46,162

CHICAGO, July 17 (INS)—The CIO United Steelworkers today had paid Miss Helen Barr Scharf, 42, of Gary, Ind., $46,162.08 for injuries received when union members forcibly ejected her from a bus Feb. 26, 1941.

The payment represented a verdict in Miss Scharf's favor of $42,500 awarded in February last year. The ruling was upheld by the Indiana Supreme Court last May, with interest added since the date of the award.

Miss Scharf suffered permanent injuries when 200 pickets forced a Gary railways company bus to halt near the Carengie-Illinois Steel plant where a drive for union members was underway.

Passengers on the bus were forced to vacate the vehicle. Miss Scharf testified in court that one of the men grabbed her by the leg and pulled her from the bus, inflicting injuries of a permanent nature to her shoulder and knee.

Fashions

or bustle on the hip, shoulder or back.

Jo Copeland gives the ankle length dress a big play in her collection, but here, again, it is carried out in the true Copeland tradition of slenderness.

Let's not waste the figure in fabric, her clothes seem to say, but wrap it closely in tightly-drawn, artistically executed design and for counter-balance place a swoosh here or there in the best places.

And if you crave statistics on fall skirt lengths, and don't think you are the only confused ones, add the Copeland estimates to your file for future reference. For daytime and afternoon clothes, Jo Copeland likes them from 12 to 14 inches from the floor, for dressier affairs, 8 to 12 inches from the ground.

Samuel Kass writes his fall and winter fashion signature in the cape suit and the tapered topper suit, both flattering departures from the classic American town suit. An exponent of the complete and distinguished costume look, he tops beautifully cut wool dresses with related jackets and adds touches of the suit fabric on dark crepe blouses.

His fur-trimmed suits have large collars built out from the throat and his town tailleur has a lined cape buttoning on at the jacket shoulders.

The Kass cape suit will be heartily welcomed by most women, for as far as we have been able to learn, women like the freedom of motion and the grace of silhouette which the cape affords. However, for newness, next season the capes will button on.

Again, in the confused issue of skirt lengths, proportion has been the gauge, and grace the aim. So many inches from the floor is a relative matter as far as the house of Kass is concerned.

The trend-setting, tapered topper suit is wonderfully demonstrated in amethyst wool with a long, loose-fitting jacket tapering in midway between hip knees, a gray Persian collar toning with the gray wool jersey blouse for a completed costume look.

The fall fashion picture is beginning to unfold. Not all the designing houses have run riot with the revived but historical era of the past. The vitality and wearability quality in clothes which American women demand is to be found.

And while not as exciting and breath-taking as the splashy excursions into the fashion era when Lady Duff-Gordon was the queen of the couturiers, they make good common fashion sense for the average Miss and Mrs. America.

We'll cast our lot with the modified modern versions.

Judge Bars Marriage Of Maine Girl, 14

SKOWHEGAN, Me., July 17—Pretty Barbara Croto, 14, of Hartland learned today that her plans to marry James E. Dinsmore, 22, of Portland, have run afoul of judicial disapproval.

Judge George M. Davis of Somerset County ordered their marriage license to be held up indefinitely.

Detroit Museum to Return Eight Dutch Paintings

DETROIT, July 17 (AP)—Eight Dutch masterpieces valued at nearly $1,000,000 which were sheltered during the war at the Detroit Institute of Arts are being returned to their owner in The Netherlands.

The masterpieces, which were stored here without charge as a good will gesture to Holland, were packed and expressed under heavy guard to New York, and from there will be shipped to Holland.

Constance Bennett Wants to Direct Film Next

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Smart Woman" is the tentative title of the picture Constance Bennett, presently starring in the North Shore Players' production of the Ruth Gordon comedy, "Over 21," at Marblehead, will produce upon her return to the West Coast.

It is also a synonym for the glamorous screen star, who makes a career of careers. In addition to her screen and stage activities, Miss Bennett designs dresses, manufactures cosmetics and presides over one of Beverly Hills' most efficiently managed households.

Her daughters, Linda and Gyl Roland, aged eight and five, are there now preparing to welcome her following an exciting cross-country motor trip of sight-seeing with their governess. So is her son, Peter Bennett Plant, recently graduated with military honors from Culver Military Academy. He will enter Dartmouth in September, following a four-year course there with two years of business law at Harvard.

"Then he'll take over the management of my various businesses," said his strikingly attractive, slim mother, who will co-star with Brian Aherne in as well as produce "Smart Woman."

Admitting that she, too, like so many experienced screen stars, wants next to direct, Miss Bennett agreed that "everybody wants to produce pictures but there are few full-fledged women producers."

For the record, Miss Bennett, who IS a full-fledged producer, told off on her fingers the assortment of chores devolving upon a producer. Lend her an ear, and you'll get over the idea that it's all beer-and-skittles.

"The producer O. K.'s the script, the cast, the sets, the director, the interior decorating, the financing, the budget, the release contacts for distribution, the writers.

"His decisions are responsible for the success or failure of the picture. The realization is death to temperamental indulgences. Try going into a temperamental snit over a failure that traces inevitably back to yourself . . . it would never jell."

Organization, says the beautifully organized Miss Bennett of the beautifully organized careers, is everything. She proves it by the ease with which she took off for Cape Playhouse at Dennis to open there under Richard Aldrich's aegis in "Over 21." Meanwhile she has had notification that her cosmetic products, which can be manufactured in greater quantity since their ingredients are being freely released for the first time since the war, soon will be distributed exclusively by a leading Fifth Avenue department store.

Another hint of Miss Bennett's business hep-ness is her insistence that "the main thing in a picture is a fine story." After the story, the director is most important. Third important factor is the star, says this actress-producer, who is a producer before she is a movie star although she entered the industry the other way 'round.

Knowing where to cut costs to get the best results is also something to remember if you want a top-grosser.

Smart woman, that Constance Bennett, who for years topped the list of Hollywood's highest-salaried screen stars. She prepped in the producing field by having her own producing company in 1938, turning out educational pictures.

The day before she was interviewed, her husband, Col. John Theron Coulter, had departed for the West Coast and his new assignment there. In "Over 21," Miss Bennett plays Paula Wharton, charming and successful writer, who follows her husband when he enters Officers' Training School, encourages him when he questions his "over 21" ability in class competition with younger potential officers.

Miss Gordon wrote the script out of her own and husband Garson Kanin's O.T.S. experience. Miss Bennett, long hesitant about braving the footlights, is right in believing she gives the role a certain note of authority.

The colonel's lady lived it, too . . . at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., where she saw her husband graduate from the air university there. Colonel Coulter is former chief of staff of the Pacific Division, Army Air Transport Command, and now is stationed with the Air Force in California.

'Stone Flower' Held at Kenmore

"Stone Flower," the charming Soviet color film which recently took first prize at the International Film Festival at Cannes, is being held over a second week on Kenmore Theater screen.

The new color process, described as a "German war prize," is at its best in the closeups of the shimmering underground fairyland to which the queen of the copper mountain lures young stone-cutter hero of the Russian folk legend.

Children of all ages will be fascinated by the enchanting fairy-story.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS
Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—This year I decided to have my first garden and planted early seeds and some plants. The tomato plants were fine, but the seeds in the ground all had white maggots in them. How can they be checked?

A Turf that has not been worked before, often is infested with grubs which have been feeding on grass roots. As you work the soil, this condition should clear up. There is not much chance of poisons into the soil to kill these pests. As the soil becomes worked you should have less trouble.

Q—We have worked a garden plot for over 20 years and now find that tomatoes lose their leaves and die about midseason. The yield is not so good.

A Your post is probably getting an accumulation of horse manure and in the case of heavy applications of sheep manure it sometimes causes this trouble. Avoid overdoing or dusting with hardwood ash help, but the real answer is to plant on new land if possible.

Q—Our kale and cabbage grows a knotty root which makes the plants wilt. We use hen manure. Would this cause the trouble?

A Your plants are suffering from club root. A common disease of plants related to cabbage. This disease develops in old gardens and the only solution is to practice crop rotation and keep these plants out of the garden for several years.

Q—How long should the sprinkler be left in one place?

A On most soils it should be moved to run for at least one hour. The best way to check is by digging down to see how deep the water has worked down. This varies with soil types.

N. Y. Murder Solved in Hour

NEW YORK, July 17 (INS)—The body stripped and stabbed in a New Jersey advertising agency was found stuffed into the cold furnace in the basement of a Harlem tenement house.

Less than an hour later police announced the arrest at New Brunswick, N. J., of a man they said admitted the slaying.

Victim of the murder was Harold Kempler, 34, a former Army lieutenant of Paterson, N. J.

Police identified the arrested man as James Gibson, 22, who was arrested in New Brunswick for a traffic violation while driving Kempler's car. Gibson waived extradition and was brought immediately to the district attorney's office in New York.

Budget Bars Raise To Hub Firemen

Boston firemen will not receive a pay raise this year because there is no money available in the city treasury, Temporary Mayor Haynes ruled. He added that the raise would probably come through next year.

"My father is going home with you just to make sure you come back!"

JVA Takes Part In Home Camp

The "Stay at Home Camp" has opened in full swing for the boys and girls of the North Bennet Street Industrial School in Boston, which includes many Junior Victory Army members.

Swimming, all day picnics at the local beaches, taking part in the various games and watching free movies has already helped make a merry day for the youngsters.

The program planned for the average party of 40 is instructive as well as educational. The members are going to visit the Boston Navy Yard, the Children's Museum and a well planned radio tour to WCOP.

The usual Monday morning program is the assembly of the boys and girls in the North Bennet Street Industrial School at which time they take part in singing and story telling.

Visits to the nearby lakes and ponds are qute a treat as fishing, clambakes and nature walks are enjoyed by all. Playing baseball is also a highlight of the program.

George C. Greener is the director of the North Bennet Street Industrial School while Joseph Heenehan is the director of the "Stay at Home Camp." The assistants are Miss Ann Gibson, Lucy Citrano and Mario Marrinella.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and address to the Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Friday's Daily Record.

JUST A SERG'T

DENVER, July 17 (AP)—It's back to the Army for Harold H. Richardson, who held the rank of brigadier general when he headed Colorado's National Guard and who was a colonel when he commanded prisoner of war camps and saw China service during World War II.

But there'll be a slight difference—this time Richardson enlisted as a master sergeant. He will be stationed at nearby Fitzsimons Hospital.

Hub Judge's Fight Against Divorce Told

The true story of a Boston judge's heartwarming crusade against divorce will be told in "Umpires for Broken Families," special article featured in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine distributed with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

It is the story of Suffolk County's Probate Judge Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr., who, shocked at the growing number of broken marriages involving parents of small children, arranged for the appointment of marriage counselors to attempt reconciliation of the drifting parents.

As a result, the number of divorces granted in Massachusetts has decreased by some 25 per cent.

Another American Weekly Feature of interest to New England readers next Sunday will be "Control for the Devil's Capsules," a fearless expose of the sleeping pill menace written by Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, sponsor of a bill seeking effective legislation to smash this growing danger.

Jordan to Seek Mayoralty Post

Peter J. Jordan, majority whip of the House of Representatives, today announced his candidacy for nomination as mayor of Revere, his home city, in the October 14 primary.

Jordan was first elected to the Legislature in 1939 and for the past six years has served as majority whip.

He is the only public official in Massachusetts to have won both Republican and Democratic nominations in five successive contests.

During his House career, Jordan sponsored such major legislation as development of the port of Boston, public ownership of the Boston Elevated Railway, off-street parking facilities in Boston, the proposed garage under Boston Common, the Day Square Elevated extension, and the veterans' bonus bill.

Church Votes Drive For Relief Abroad

ST. LOUIS, July 17 (AP)—The general synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church voted at the closing session of its triennial meeting to launch a campaign to raise $3,000,000, most of which would be spent abroad.

Of this amount, $1,750,000 would be spent for the church's world service program, including relief, and $750,000 would be allocated to its board of international missions, primarily for restoration of church properties in mission fields which were destroyed during the war.

Railroad Engineers Declare Strike Intent

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17 (INS)—A strike call against the entire Southern Pacific Railway system was issued by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Brotherhood locals notified the road that they will strike at 6 p. m. Monday unless the railroad decides to meet 19 of the Brotherhood's 74 demands for changes in working rules.

POUNDAGE COUNTS

DECATUR, Ill., July 17 (AP)—Decatur units of the Illinois National Guard want more men—big ones—and are willing to pay to get them.

Lt. Col. Lauren Shaw, commander, says he'll pay guardsmen a two-cent-a-pound bounty on recruits they bring in until the total weight of new enlistees hits the 5000-pound mark.

Guardsmen expressed regret the offer wasn't posted last week—when a 260-pound recruit was inducted.

BRIEF FREEDOM

FRAMINGHAM, July 17 (AP)—After a brief period of freedom, four Greater Boston women who escaped from the Massachusetts reformatory were back in confinement today.

They were recaptured at Washington and Castle sts. in downtown Boston shortly after police broadcast an alarm.

They were identified by reformatory officials as Rita Layphe, Antoinette di Benedette, Theresa Comeau and Eunice MacDonald.

Mary Pickford Aids Her Lawyer

LOS ANGELES, July 17 (AP)—Actress Mary Pickford essayed the role of a lawyer's assistant as trial of Director Gregory La Cava's $1,653,750 breach of contract suit against her began yesterday.

She followed testimony closely and made voluminous notes on a yellow legal tablet.

La Cava, alleging Miss Pickford reneged on an agreemnt for him to rewrite, direct and produce "One Touch of Venus" for her, told superior judge Elmer W. Heald that in 1945 he told her representative that "the only two times Mary and I had met in the past our temperaments clashed."

It was for that reason, he said, that he insisted on being given full supervision. He alleged that after due negotiations and verbal agreement Miss Pickford refused to sign a written contract.

Truman, Patterson Talk Over Unification

WASHINGTON, July 17 (INS) —War Sec. Patterson conferred with President Truman after Navy Sec. Forrestal denied reports that he has been offered the proposed new cabinet post of secretary of national security.

The new super-secretary would head all branches of the armed forces under the Army-Navy unification bill passed by the Senate and scheduled for House debate tomorrow.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, THURS., JULY 17, 1947

30 Select Circle Beckons 'Ruff'; He's Doubtful

Red Ruffing

By HERB FINNEGAN

CHICAGO, July 17—Charlie Ruffing, 270-game winner, was reviewing his deferred comeback test before the Red Sox and White Sox closed their series in a double-header today. He had pitched seven innings, given up eight hits and five runs as Boston won 7-2 behind Denny Galehouse.

"My knee didn't bother me a bit," he said encouragingly of the appendage that forced him from the game May 4, after he pitched one inning against the A's. "I didn't figure it would. When I pitched that exhibition game in Kalamazoo last week, I knew I'd be all right. Couple of more games, and I'll be ready."

The old sorrel-top is 43. He still needs 30 victories to join the 300 group of Cy Young, Walter Johnson, Christy Mathewson, Grover Alexander, Lefty Grove and a few other immortals. Did he think he could make it?

"I dunno," he said as he sat on a trunk in the clubhouse and puffed on a cigarette, "I dunno."

"You coulda made it if you hadn't started out with that eight place White Sox club," somebody ventured.

"I wouldn't say that," answered Ruff. "But I know I could have made it if I hadn't spent 2½ years in the service. I was pitching good ball when I joined up."

Yes, he was. He had won 15, lost 5 in '41, 14 and 7 in '42. At that rate, hadn't the war intervened, he'd have reached his 300-goal by this time.

Would Still Be Yank Under McCarthy

AS IT WAS he lost the '43 and '44 seasons and half of '45. He won 7, lost 3 in late '45, won 5, lost 1 with the Yanks last year.

Had Joe McCarthy remained at the Yanks' helm, it is likely Ruff still would be a Yank. He joined the Yanks in 1930, a year before McCarthy, and they shared many successes together, including participation in seven World Series. Now instead of having the bats of DiMaggio, Keller and Henrich behind him he has a second division club.

Old Red was greeted with a single by lead-off man Dente and walked Pesky. Moses flied out but Williams singled Dente home, and Pesky scored on Doerr's loft to Tucker. In the third, Williams hit a two-run homer, his 16th of the year. In the sixth DiMaggio doubled and registered on Tebbetts' single.

That was the extent of the Sox scoring off the veteran. He was good in spots. He faced only three men in the second, and from the third to the fifth he retired seven Sox in order. He gave only two walks, one intentional.

"It was really my first start of the season," he said. "You weren't hit any harder than Galehouse," said his teammates. "We hit 'em right at their fielders; they hit 'em in the holes."

There were some balls well tagged off Galehouse, but he shut out the White Sox until the ninth, when they made their two runs on doubles by Wright and York, a single by Philley and a line drive by Tucker which Williams grabbed with his gloved hand close to the ground in left center.

If the day was roseate for Ruffing, it was more so for Galehouse. It was his fourth victory against one defeat since he joined the Sox from the last place Browns, and everybody would be tickled to see the affable hurler grab a slice of the World Series dough, even if it were only place or show money.

Sox Hated to See Russell Depart

WILLIAMS NOT ONLY made his 16th home run off Ruffing, but he had three hits for the day and boosted his average to .315. Thus he took over the club leadership from Sam Dente (.314). Williams was batting .295 on June 27, and has hiked his average from .306 to .315 since the All-Star game. His prediction that nobody in the league would hit .350 this year seems to be ringing true, and despite his sorry first-half season he may finish among the leaders.

Dom DiMaggio stopped going for the downs, choked his bat a few inches, came up with a single and double. Maybe he's found the remedy to his .215 first half average . . . Luke Appling had a good word for Dente's fielding and hitting. The rookie third sacker ties into the ball with malicious intent.

Dobson (9-5) and Dorish (5-8) vs. Lopat (7-7) and Gillespie (5-4) was today's pitching array . . . Sox now have won four, lost four on this Western trip . . . They leave tonight for St. Louis where they have a night game scheduled Friday, an afternoon game Saturday and a double-header Sunday. Also they have a long train ride home after the Sunday twin bill. They were unable to make plane connections, so will not reach Boston until midnight Monday . . . The boys hated to see Russell go. He was popular with all.

Spahn Best N. L. Pitcher Despite Blacky's Win Edge

By FRED HOEY

Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati's tower of light, may be three victories to the good but we'll have to toss in a vote for Warren Harding Spahn as the National League's best pitcher as of this moment. Those who saw Blackwell clubbed by the Braves here last week and then witnessed Spahn toss a 3-0 quoit around the Cardinals last night before 28,650 at the Wigwam will agree.

This was Spahn's second straight shutout. He blanked the Reds 4-0 in his last appearance. It was his fourth win over the Cardinals, a team which has lost no respect throughout the circuit as you can see by the pressure which their very appearance puts on all rival clubs.

Now Spahn hasn't been scored on in his last 25 innings of league pitching. In addition he had two no-run frames in the All-Star game. No team has been able to put over a tally on Warren since July 3 and the slim but durable left-hander is keeping the Tribe up within reach of the roof. A little more help from Voiselle, Barrett and Sain and the Braves might make it. It could happen here.

The Braves were a championship outfit all the way as they blanked the Cards, who have been playing at a .667 gait over their last 35 games. They have deep confidence in Spahn. They know he can beat them all if accorded solid support in the field and at the dish.

Spahn was given more than ample support last night, especially by Nanny Fernandez, who looks like a sweet shortstop. He was put at short when Seb Sisti went to the hospital with a bad shoulder injury, three torn ligaments which will be operated upon today. Dick Culler wasn't hitting much and while Fernandez was not regarded as Culler's equal with the leather, he was looked upon as a much more dangerous athlete at the plate.

Fernandez even made Marty Marion look like something just out of the bushes last night. He helped hoist Spahn out of deep holes by starting double plays in the first and second innings when the Cards had two men aboard. In the ninth he pulled one of the niftiest plays these eyes have seen in years at Allston to bring the game to a brilliant close. Slaughter was on first when Medwick hit a scorcher down the middle. It was headed straight into center field for a base hit which would have put Slaughter on third and, maybe, given Spahn a severe case of jitters. He was tiring.

Fernandez actually overtook the ball from behind with a face-first lunge. Then, while still stretched out, he back-handed the ball 10 yards to Ryan for a game-ending force out. It was a pass like Joe Mullaney of Holy Cross' championship basketball team might deliver. It was terrific.

Red Barrett, ex-Cardinal, will try to give the Tribe a series edge tonight. He pitches against Cat Brecheen, who automatically makes the Cards a favorite. Spahn showed that he pitches with his head as well as a leathery arm when fanned Medwick on three pitches in the 7th. Spahn had a 2-0 count on Medwick and, naturally, Duck-Wucky expected Spahn to waste the next one. He didn't even take the bat off his shoulder. Spahn tricked him with a fast ball right through the middle for a called third strike.

Ft. Lauderdale is a lovely spot deep down on Florida's East Coast, equi-distant between Palm Beach and Miami, but the Braves may have to quit the training site where they have spent the last two springs . . . Transfer of their spring quarters is not yet definite but the Tribe is having difficulty arranging an exhibition game schedule against major league opposition in that area . . . Only other club around is the Philadelphia Athletics.

FINAL BARRAGE—Rocky Graziano pummels Zale on the ropes at will, just before referee stopped fight in the sixth round. Zale blamed extreme heat of the indoor arena for his defeat. A return bout is in the making.

Rocky's Ring Win Puts N. Y. Solons on Spot

Rocky Graziano's sixth round technical knockout of Tony Zale for the world middleweight title in Chicago definitely puts the New York Boxing Commission on the spot.

Since Graziano is under a suspension in New York for failing to report a $100,000 bribe offer, Zale is still the champion in New York.

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP)—Rocky Graziano, tough, tousled-haired youngster from the streets of New York who looks just like he had sneaked out of an alley, reigned today as middleweight champion of the world.

The 25-year-old Graziano, fighting to redeem himself from the stigma of suspension in New York State, battered the 33-year-old title-holder Tony Zale to pitiful helplessness in the Chicago Stadium last night.

Graziano, himself previously on the verge of a knockout, was declared the winner on a technical knockout 2 minutes 10 seconds after the start of the sixth round. The finish came at almost the exact stage that Zale had come from behind to knock out Graziano in their first engagement in New York last Sept. 27.

The savagely-fought battle, scheduled for 15 rounds, was witnessed by a sweltering, howling crowd of 18,547 which established an all-time indoor gate by paying $422,918, and more than doubled the old record of $201,485 hung up by Jimmy Maloney and Jack Delaney, heavyweights, in New York 20 years ago.

Zale, champion since 1940, came to the end of his trail with tragic suddenness. Up to the end of the fifth round, two judges and Referee Johnny Behr had voted him leading on points by a safe margin for carrying the attack to the challenger. Zale had gashed a cut over Graziano's left eye, his right eye was rapidly closing and his nose was bleeding and cut.

In the third round, Zale, who weighed 159 to 155¾ for the challenger, all but finished Graziano. Rocky was badly hurt and staggering under Zale's punishing blows to the head and body. A short right to the chin had floored Graziano, but he was up before the count started. His youthful heart was beating with defiance, and somehow he weathered the storm.

In the fourth, Graziano drove a terrific right to Zale's body—a devastating punch that started Zale to his finish. Zale, however, courageously tried to carry the battle to his opponent but the punishing power of his blows was fading.

Zale started to wilt in the fifth. His tempo slowed. He lashed out with the pride of a falling champion, but failed to hurt Graziano, and at the end of the round he was visibly tired.

Then came the dramatic sixth and finish. The spirit of youth was starting to tell. Zale was slowing down rapidly. Graziano was getting stronger.

Zale still rushed to attack and pinned the challenger in Tony's own corner. As Zale moved in, Graziano countered with a blasting right to the jaw, thrown with all the power of his youth. Zale reeled backwards, his hands dropped to his side. Graziano knew that Zale was hurt and he opened up in a fury of blows, connecting solidly with a left hook and a right to the chin. Zale's eyes glazed and he staggered back, groping blindly for support.

Once Zale stabbed with a left in a vain attempt to halt Graziano's charges. But Rocky swept in with another right to the jaw, and Zale, completely helpless, sagged under the top strand of the ropes. The New York battler mercilessly followed up, attempting to hammer Zale as he hung there. But Referee Behr pulled him away.

As the timekeeper shouted "three," Behr pushed Graziano to a neutral corner and ended the fight.

Sam Pian and Art Winch, co-managers of Zale, declared today they would demand a return match with Graziano in accordance with the 90-day return bout stipulation in their contract.

Bids are under consideration from Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Chicago. Pian and Winch, and Zale, too, complained that the terrific heat robbed him of his speed.

"The next fight, if they meet again, will be held out-of-doors," Pian asserted. "Tony simply couldn't stand up under that heat."

'Rocky Still Out in N.Y.'—Eagan

NEW YORK, July 17 (INS)—New York had the anomaly of a lifetime today in a newly established world's champion, Rocky Graziano, who was due to receive universal acceptance—except in his home state of New York. But Boxing Commissioner Chairman Eddie Eagan saw nothing illogical about the reputed world-center of boxing having no liaison with an established world's middleweight champion whose line of succession to the title seemed virtually flawless:

Namely, through Graziano's sixth-round knockout of the old champion, Tony Zale, at Chicago last night.

Said spokesman Eagan, whose board revoked Graziano's license in New York last winter for failing to report a proffered bribe:

"I have no comment to make on the Chicago result, because there's nothing to say," and then said it with forensic eloquence, as follows:

"I don't care to hazard an opinion as to what New York's reaction will be, since the question of Graziano isn't up before our commission, and hasn't been for some months. Anything that may happen in that connection is up to him and his managers.

"As it stands, he has no status in New York, and I can't see why there's any reason to alter our stand that Graziano was not worthy of holding a boxer's license.

"After all, nothing has changed that fact—including what happened last night. But, as I say, any further developments are up to the Graziano people, if they can think of any," with which utterance Chairman Eagan indicated the interview was over.

ZALE GETS $135,492; ROCKY $67,746

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP)—Rocky Graziano received an estimated $67,746 for winning the middleweight championship while Tony Zale receipted for about $135,492 for losing the title.

The gross gate was $422,918. Less taxes, the net was an estimated $308,730. An additional $30,000 for radio broadcasting rights made a total of $338,730 from which the fighters' purses were taken.

Zale received 40 per cent and Graziano 20 per cent.

Henrich Finally Gets Recognition As Spark of Yanks' Victory Streak

Tommy (The Clutch) Henrich, who was not even listed as a regular at the start of the season, finally has emerged from the shadows to take his rightful place among the top flight stars of baseball today, according to the Associated Press.

Eclipsed during most of his major league career by such famous teammates as Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller and Spud Chandler, the clever rightfielder of the Yankees actually has been the hottest batter in the American League during the past three weeks.

And it is no mere coincidence that the Yankees, concurrent with Henrich's sizzling stickwork, have won their last 17 games for a new club mark, surpassing the old standard of 16 set in 1926. They need only two more wins to equal the league record of 19 established by the Chicago White Sox of 1906.

Henrich, known as a ball player's ball player but lacking the "color" to gain recognition from the fans, was slated to alternate at first base with the aging George McQuinn, according to early season plans of Mgr. Bucky Harris. A left-handed batter, he was to play only when the opposition featured a right-handed pitcher on the mound. But Tommy soon convinced his boss that he belonged in the lineup every day with his fine clutch hitting, and with McQuinn going great guns at first base, Henrich was returned to his old right field post.

Henrich played fine ball for the Yankees all season, but it was not until the Yankees made their swift thrust which practically made a shambles of the American League's pennant race, that he came into his own. Since the Yankees began their streak June 29, Henrich has hit around .400 and boosted his average to .290 for the campaign.

In the last seven games, Tommy has banged out 17 hits in 32 times at bat for a mark of .532. Included among his blows are three doubles, two triples and three home runs. During that time he has driven in 12 runs and scored eight. His work in the outfield, as always, has been above reproach.

Despite swinging second in the batting order, Henrich has driven in 5 runs, only three behind DiMaggio's league-leading total of 59. He trails only Ted Williams in runs scored and is tied for the lead with eight triples. Ten of his blows have gone out of the park.

Tommy got a home run and single yesterday while driving in two runs as the Yankees defeated the Indians again, 8-2, last night before a crowd of 46,988 home Cleveland rooters.

The National League leading Brooklyn Dodgers retained their two and a half game margin over second place Boston by outslugging the Pittsburgh Pirates at Ebbets' Field, 10-6. Hank Behrman, recently returned by the Pirates to Brooklyn after his conditional purchase from the Dodgers, gained his first victory of the season at the expense of his former mates. He was relieved by Harry Taylor in the eighth.

The Giants whipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-3, in an afternoon game at the Polo Grounds. The Phils, behind the three-hit pitching of Dutch Leonard, defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 4-1, in Philadelphia.

Rookie outfielder Bobby Thomson led the Giants to victory, driving in four runs with a double and his 15th home run against Hank Borowy. Monte Kennedy was the winner. Leonard, the former knuckle ball expert of the American League, racked up his 10th win to pace the Philly pitchers.

Detroit and Washington split a double-header at the Tiger city, the Bengals coming from behind with a four-run eighth-inning to win the opener 9-8. The Senators ganged up on four pitchers for 16 hits to capture the nightcap 10-1. Dick Wakefield knocked in five runs to pace the Tigers in the first game, while Stan Spence, who made four hits in the opener, added two more to lead the Senators in the second game.

After losing the first game to the Browns, 5-4, in 11 innings when Jeff Heath and Paul Lehner hit extra-inning homers to overcome a 4-3 Philly lead, the Athletics gained an even break when they won the second game of the twilight night double-header in St. Louis 4-1. Young Bill McCahan doled out four hits to win.

Arthritic Aces Set Phils' Pace

PHILADELPHIA, July 17 (AP)—National League batters are still being taken in by the "wolf cry" of the Philadelphia Phillies ailing (?)—but winning—pitching duo of Emil (Dutch) Leonard and Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe.

These two aged righthanders—Leonard is 37, Rowe 35—probably will be wheeled out to the hill on their next assignments if the sad tales emanating from the Phil front office are more than just figments of a doctor's imagination.

Rowe, the flinger who once won 16 in a row for the American League's Detroit Tigers, is—off and on—suffering from arthritis, water on the elbow, sprained back, sore thumbs and a headache or two. But between pills he has managed to score nine triumphs this season against four losses.

Leonard, whose "achin' back" they say practically makes him a cripple, has won 10 times and lost four.

Manager Ben Chapman, at the beginning of each week, gloomily announcese that "Dutch and Schoolboy are on the sick list—they're lost to us for a month."

"Brother," says the opposition, "with Leonard and Rowe on the shelf, here is where we move up a few notches.

But what happens?

Pittsburgh came to the Quaker city last week for one of those "pathetic and easy" series with the crippled (?) Phillies. Out to the mound in one of the games, strides Leonard—walking as if a sore back was only something he had read about in books.

Leonard is a whiz and sets the Pirates down with four hits.

Immediately after the game, Chapman says "poor Dutch" really was ailing and may be lost to the club for several weeks.

So last night, less than a week after stopping Pittsburgh, "poor Dutch" went back to the pitching mound, mowed down Cincinnati with three hits and won his 10th 1947 triumph.

Four Junior Golfers Drive Toward State Championship

By BILL GRIMES

WORCESTER, July 17—After one preliminary and four regular rounds, the 29th State Junior Amateur Championship survivors, who are playing the semi-finals this morning at the Worcester Country Club, are Bob "Bucky" Marchese, of the Country Club of Springfield, Ted Newcomb, Jr., Furnace Brook, a former Northern Ohio junior champion, Bill Roberts, Franconia, of the Springfield section and Jackie Nies, United Shoe.

"Bucky" Marchese is playing Ted Newcomb this morning and Bill Roberts is out with Jackie Nies.

Bob Marchese and Bill Roberts qualified for the Hearst a week ago at Wachusett while Jackie Nies was the medalist of the Hearst qualifications at the Merrimack Valley Golf Club. Ted Newcomb was beaten in a playoff at South Shore but he's an alternate for the Hearst match play on Woodland.

Bill Roberts was an unknown until he played in the Hearst at Wachusett last Friday. He came down from Chicopee and despite the fact that he'd never seen Wachusett, let alone played it, he posted a 77.

Roberts is a terrific hitter and as the same applied to Jackie Nies, their match this morning should have produced many thrills from the gallery.

Until informed of the state junior by the writer, Bill Roberts didn't know anything about the event.

After Roberts turned his 77 card at Wachusett we asked him, "Did you enter the state junior, Bill?"

"No, I didn't," replied the husky kid from Williston Academy, "in fact, I didn't know anything about it."

Roberts went to the Worcester Country Club and was a post entry. He met Herbie Soderman, Pakachoag, another Hearst qualifier in the preliminary round and moved into the regular championship event.

In his five rounds, Roberts has mowed down opponents without too much trouble. Due to his long yardage off the tees and through the fairways, Roberts has stolen the show.

Today he's playing a youngster whom many experts believe to be the longest hitter in the state. It will be very interesting as to whether Roberts can outhit Nies or vice-versa.

War Date En Route to Suffolk for Dustin 'Cap

By DAVE WILSON

The Maine Chance Farm's War Date, winner of three stakes this season and twice conqueror of Elphis, is en route to Suffolk Downs to run in Saturday's renewal of the $15,000 Hannah Dustin Handicap. A 5-year-old daughter of War Admiral, War Date will be the starting top-weight at 121 pounds of the small but select field down to contest honors in the week-end test at one mile and a sixteenth.

War Date has captured a trio of stakes this year, the $6500 Coquette at Jamaica, the $7500 Minerva at Jamaica and the $10,000 Pleione at Aqueduct. In the latter engagement on June 13, she packed 122 pounds and raced the mile and a furlong in 1:52 3-5.

The presence of War Date along with William Helis' Elphis and Mrs. Helen K. Haggerty's Rampart in the starting field for the Hannah Dustin lends considerable prestige to the weekend feature, and it could easily develop into the best race of the current New England racing season.

Torrance Melrose, the owner of a large hotel chain bearing his name, who is campaigning his large stable at the current Suffolk Downs meeting, is due to arrive at the East Boston oval sometime today. If business pressure permits, Melrose plans to remain in New England until the close of the present racing season.

Thoroughbreds trained by the astute Howard Hoffman are having more than their share of ill luck at the current Suffolk Downs meeting. Hoffman's streak of bad luck started when Ernest W. Cragin's highly-regarded handicap star Midway Sun bowed a tendon and had to be shipped back to the farm for at least a year's rest. On Monday, T. C. Melrose's classy mare, Foxie Nettie, suffered a broken leg in a race and had to be destroyed. The mare, who was valued at more than $10,000 was not insured. And to top all this off the two highest regarded juveniles in the T. C. Melrose string, Hash Night and Mel Hash are coughing and it may be sometime before they return to the races.

Trainer Whitey Nixon reports that Jockey Charlie Givens has been engaged to pilot Rampart in the Hannah Dustin Handicap . . . Trainer Tommy Queen has taken a contract on a new apprentice, Willis Hughes, 20-year-old lad from Lowell, Mass. . . . Several local fillies and mares are listed as probable starters in the Hannah Dustin. This group includes Stepping Miss, Ellen Mist, Lady Phara and possibly Sunny.

Trainer Ed Wright arrived yesterday at Suffolk Downs with Bull Weed, Flyoff and Lady Charade from Chicago. This trio was recently purchased from the Calumet Fam .

Lincoln Downs' Wakefield Purse Attracts Fancy Field

By BOB WALDO

LINCOLN DOWNS, R. I., July 17—Potentially the best sprint affair of the week and a half old meeting is slated to go postward in the featured Wakefield Purse here this afternoon. Racing Secretary Gordon Morrow has several of the better sprinters who campaigned at Narragansett meeting the issue.

Heading the list of speedsters that displayed their wares with the best in New England are: Tiger Call, from the estate of R. Lipson; Arthur Gaignard, Jr.'s Bright Signal; W. J. Beattie's Oxie; A. H. Warner's Honor Student. Others that will vie for the purse are H. A. Kimball's Tennis Ball, an invader from Suffolk Downs; Tom Trulis' Efhad, and four more, making up the full field of 10.

The five furlong dash appears to be well suited for such early speed horses as Tiger Call, Bright Signal and Oxie. If these three kill one another in the early running the issue may be left open for one of the pace chasers.

Apprentice rider Harold E. Rulon, Jr., completed one of racing's most unusual feats yesterday while booting the 4-year-old filly Franchea to the winner's circle in the fourth race. The rider was accepting the first mount of his career while riding in the colors of his father, Harold Sr., who also trains the horse, thus completing a banner father and son act.

In the same race Mrs. W. D. Carroll's Dusty Devil was disqualified out of second money

Heat Fells Ten Patrons At Zale, Graziano Bout

CHICAGO, July 17 (AP)—Ten spectators fainted dead away because of the heat, but Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano squirted to their dressing rooms in the basement of Chicago Stadium under their own power.

That's how hot it was last night and that was how the fight went.

The 25-year-old Rocky, looking like something out of a meat grinder, took the middleweight boxing championship.

Zale was the victim of a technical knockout in the sixth. He had a slight scratch on his cheekbone, and that was about all.

Zale, the so-called "man of steel" who toughened up for his ring career by working beside Gary, Ind., blast furnaces, said the heat and the referee" cost him his crown.

Graziano, bleeding from gashes over each eye and displaying bruised knuckles on both fists, said an overhand right is what spun Zale into grogginess and sent him weaving helplessly around the ring until referee Johnny Behr stepped in to award the t. k. o. in the sixth—the same round Zale stopped Rocky in their first meeting in New York city last Sept. 27.

"But I knew what was going on," protested the disheartened 33-year-old Zale in his shower room. "I had 50 seconds left until the bell, and I think I could have have lasted it out, although my legs started to tire up a bit in the fifth round."

Graziano, who swished blood from a gash over his left eye from the first round on, was all but blinded in the fourth, and even appeared to be swinging wildly. Just before this round started, he assured his manager, Irving Cohen, that he would nail Zale.

Swim Meet Winner Looks for Revival Of Diving in N. E.

Bill Campbell, the New England intercollegiate low board diving champion, thinks that diving is in for a large scaled revival throughout these New England states. Bill, a member of the Springfield University swim team, recently won in diving competition at a Record-American-Sunday Advertiser swim meet at Portsmouth.

"The only reason that California continually develops more divers than New England is because that section abounds in swimming pools," stated Campbell.

"During the time I have been in New England I have noticed very few top pools or boards. One of the reasons why Moonie Kong and myself accepted jobs at the Wentworth Hotel in Portsmouth was because of the pool and the boards."

"The only other New England meet which I intend to enter is the one scheduled at the Cape Codder Hotel in Falmouth," emphasized Campbell. "They tell me that Capt. Peterson has arranged for both one and three metre boards."

The next meet in the Hearst swimming campaign is scheduled for the Municipal Pool, Lexington, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30. There is one up in Worcester on Sunday at the Holland Recreational Pool. The following meet is scheduled for Montello Pool, Brockton, on Saturday, July 26.

JACK CONWAY, JR.

Pawtucket Lands Infielder, Catcher On Hearst Team

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

Jim "Mac" Wright, catcher, and Lou Sarkisian, shortstop, the two boys selected in the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser Sandlot Baseball trials held yesterday at McCoy Stadium, Pawtucket, will be great assets for the Hearst N. E. squad which will play in Fenway Park on July 29.

Pete Fox, manager of the Pawtucket Slaters of the New England League, did a fine job of conducting the tryouts. Pete had the boys hustling for close to three hours before he brought the field of competitors down to Wright and Sarkisian.

Wright shows great possibilities of developing into a stand-out athlete. He lives at 128 Main st., Lonsdale, R. I., and played three years with the Cumberland High team. During those three years "Mac" had a batting mark of .377. He stands 5 ft. 10 inches and weighs 180 pounds.

Pete Fox thinks that Sarkisian—a 140 pound 5 ft. 5 in. shortstop—looks like Don Gutteridge. Lou lives at 422 Taunton ave., Seekonk, R. I. During the last two years, at East Providence High, Lou has had a batting average of .337.

The selection of these two boys brings the Hearst New England team to 23 players. One more trial still remains on the agenda. That is set for Dilboy Field, Somerville, at 10 a. m., on next Saturday.

Three boys will be selected at Dilboy to make the Hearst squad a full 26 players.

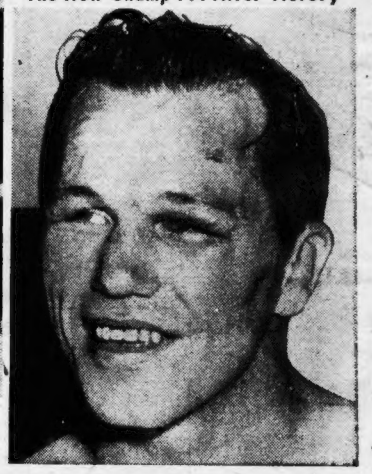
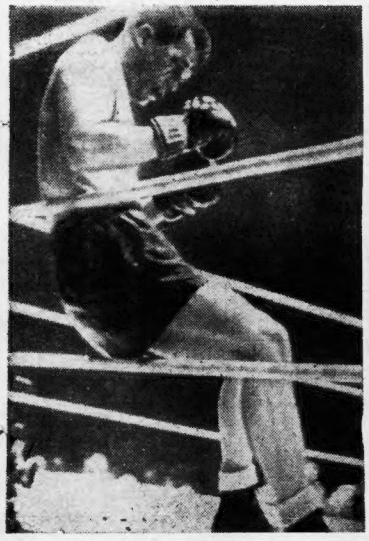
The New Champ . . . After Victory



The Dethroned Zale . . . Unmarked

Beginning of Champ's Finish—This remarkable picture was made in the sixth round of the middleweight championship fight at Chicago Stadium, which ended in a technical knockout and victory for Rocky Graziano over Tony Zale. Graziano, one of his eyes closed, has just landed a terrific right



Champion Dethroned—Tony Zale, the middleweight champ, sags (at left) into the ropes in the sixth round under the hammer blows of Rocky Graziano. In the center, Zale hangs through ropes and Rocky is restrained by referee's hand. At right, Tony rolls on ropes and Graziano is pulled away by the referee, who stopped the bout.
